400 DIAPERS A WEEK — Feeding her quintuplets in New York, Mrs. William Kienast (center) gets the help of neighbors as she uses an assembly line technique. The quints, who will turn six months of age Aug. 24, uses 400 diapers a week. The Kienasts have two other children, Meg, 4, and John, 19 months. Asked the obvious question, Mrs. Kienast said, "No more."

President Flies To Mexico

Border Problems To Be Discussed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon flies to the Mexican resort of Puerto Vallarta today for a discussion of border problems with President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz of Mexico.

A planeload of top advisers and their wives planned to make the 4½-hour flight with President and Mrs. Nixon, and travel with them from Mexico to the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif., Friday.

Puerto Vallarta, a Pacific coast town of 6,000, has become a popular resort since "Night of the Iguana," starring Richard Burton and Ava Gardner, was filmed there.

The trip has been described by the White House as a working visit which will include discussions ranging from foreign policy to narcotics.

The two presidents will entertain each other and their parties at formal lunches today and Friday, with their private talks scheduled this afternoon in a second-floor conference room of the oceanfront Hotel Delfin.

Some administration sources indicate agreements may be announced afterward on the shifting Rio Grande River boundary between the two countries and the troubling salination of Colorado River waters that both neighbors use.

Another chief topic listed by Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, is the continuing "Operation Cooperation," an effort to halt the flow of marijuana, heroin and other dangerous drugs from Mexico into the United States.

It is Nixon's second meeting with President Diaz Ordaz. They met last September to dedicate Amistad Dam near Del Rio, Tex.

Guerrillas Mum On Next Move With Hostages

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The Tupamaro guerrillas remained silent today on their plans for two kidnapped foreigners. Police, facing the possibility the strategy is being disrupted from inside jail, tried to isolate captured guerrilla leaders from the outside world.

No authenticated messages have been received from the guerrillas since Aug. 11, when they reported in a communiqué that American agronomist Claude L. Fly, 65, and Brazilian consul Aloysio Mares Dias Gomide, 41, were in good health.

Police reported on Wednesday the discovery of a letter from a jailed Tupamaro leader to another guerrilla chief urging the terrorists to remain silent because they had more to gain the longer the two hostages were held.

The letter, written on nine cigarette papers, was sent to Raul Sendic, a founder of the organization, and was found in the suburban house where he and eight other Tupamaros were captured Aug. 7.

Volunteer Army Proposal Studied By U.S. Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — With unsuccessful efforts to curb the Safeguard antimissile system out of the way, the Senate is plunging into a new controversy over replacing the draft with an all-volunteer Army.

Leaders of an unusual coalition seeking to junk the draft say debate will be extensive. And unless they get an agreement permitting a straight yes or no vote on merits of the question, they say they just might keep on talking.

The Safeguard issue was laid to rest Wednesday when the Senate voted 53-45 against an amendment by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., that would have barred ABM expansion to two new sites and used the $322 million saved to bolster defenses at the two sites authorized last year.

Mary Jo's Mom Raps Ted's Friends

NEW YORK (AP) — The mother of Mary Jo Kopechne has questioned the behavior of two friends of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy after the accident that summer.

Writing in the current issue of McCall's Magazine, Mrs. Kopechne also said she believed Kennedy's story that he was driving Mary Jo to the ferry on Chappaquiddick Island when he took a wrong turn and his car plunged off a wooden bridge. Mrs. Kopechne drowned. Kennedy escaped serious injury but did not report the accident to authorities for several hours.

Mrs. Kopechne was highly critical of the inquest into the accident. Referring to Judge James A. Boyle's statement that he believed Kennedy had lied about his destination, she wrote:

"This conclusion, by a man who didn't know Mary Jo, leaves a bad taste in our mouths and we absolutely reject it and any implications that flow from it."

The behavior of Kennedy's two friends, Joseph Gargan and Paul Markham, is inexplicable and was not explained at the inquest, Mrs. Kopechne said. She asked why they did not call authorities when Kennedy, having escaped from the submerged car, summoned them to help him try to rescue Mary Jo.

Markham, reached for comment in Boston, said: "I gave what I thought was all the facts I am aware of under oath at the inquest, which is now a matter of public information. I don't want to comment further on it."

Gilligan Attacks Republican Record

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial nominee John J. Gilligan charged today that the present state administration has chosen "to ignore the real needs of the people and to concentrate instead on public relations programs."

In remarks prepared for delivery to the United Steelworkers Union convention, Gilligan said the state "has done practically nothing in the fields of education, mental health, law enforcement and pollution control."

Gilligan was scheduled to fly to Youngstown later today.

fenses at the two sites authorized last year.

Then, on an 87-2 roll call, it crushed an amendment by Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., that would have required governors to obtain presidential permission before issuing weapons and live ammunition to National Guard troops in civil disorders.

Only Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., voted with McCarthy for the amendment which was triggered by criticism of the role of Ohio National Guard troops in the killing of four students at Kent State University last May.

Beginning with a squabble over time to be allotted, the Senate then began consideration of the volunteer Army amendment by Sens. Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Barry Goldwater of Arizona, two Republicans found on opposite sides of many issues.

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., of the Armed Services Committee declared both the White House and Pentagon have said they oppose the move, at least for the moment; and certainly as an amendment to the pending $19.2 billion military procurement bill.

Stennis said it would be the height of irresponsibility to adopt the Hatfield-Goldwater amendment and added: "Nothing would be more damaging to our national security."

Hatfield explained his amendment is a legislative bid to adopt the recommendations of the Gates Commission on the draft, which includes abolishing it in favor of inducements designed to provide a sufficient number of volunteers.

He emphasized it would not immediately stop inductions and declared: "It would not jeopardize."

Tropic Storm Threatens Martinique

MIAMI (AP) — Packing winds up to 70 miles per hour, Tropical Storm Dorothy today plowed a course toward the island resort of Martinique and threatened the entire leeward chain.

The big storm's center was expected to strike Martinique about noon today, the Weather Bureau said.

Storm warnings and a hurricane watch were posted for the windward islands from St. Lucia northward and for all the leeward islands, forecasters said. The two groups are about 1,200 miles southeast of Miami.

"Being in close proximity to the center, the islands of St. Lucia, Martinique, Dominica, Desirade and Guadeloupe will experience maximum exposure to the storm," the Weather Bureau said.

Reconnaissance planes early today placed Dorothy near latitude 14.1 north, longitude 59.0 west, or about 130 miles east of Lucia.

Pilots said the storm was moving northwest at about 17 m.p.h.

"Gale force winds extended outward 100 miles in the northeast semicircle and 50 miles in the southwest semicircle," the Weather Bureau said.

Little change in direction or intensity was forecast.

Nixon Stand On Germ War Treaty Rapped

Solon Claims Defoliants Also Covered In Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senator who hopes to outlaw the use of defoliants in Vietnam says President Nixon may be using a 45-year-old treaty barring gas and germ warfare to scuttle his proposal.

Administration officials said Wednesday that use of defoliants, tear gas and napalm would be permitted under the 1925 Geneva Protocol.

President Nixon sent the treaty to Senate for ratification on Wednesday. Most observers expect it to be approved.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said his amendment to ban the use of herbicides may be the reason the President acted this week—nine months after he announced he would seek Senate ratification of the treaty.

"I think their point is to get an administration position in opposition to the amendment," the Wisconsin Democrat said. "They want to exert the pressure of having their position clearly delineated."

Although he favors the treaty, Nelson took sharp exception to the administration view stated by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, in a letter accompanying Nixon's message, that tear

Heavy Rain Splatters Areas Of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Heavy rain splattered into a large part of the nation from the central Plains to the middle Atlantic states today.

Nearly 2 inches soaked Hill City, Kan., during the night. Drenchings of an inch or more were common in parts of Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Thunderstorms rumbled through the night in much of the rainy region. The storms were triggered in midcontinent areas by an advancing cold front that dropped temperatures into the middle 40s in sections of the northern Plains.

Violent winds accompanied the storms in Missouri and upstate New York late Wednesday. Funnel clouds were sighted in Florida, Illinois and Kentucky.

Two persons were injured and some 30 small boats sank as high winds whipped Table Rock Lake near Branson, in southwestern Missouri. Numerous other persons were treated for minor injuries when the wind picked up a 180-by-40-foot dock and flipped it over.

A house and several barns were damaged heavily by what was termed a possible tornado at Eden, N.Y., 30 miles southwest of Buffalo.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 45 at Aberdeen, S.D., to 89 at Thermal, Calif.

CCA Offers To Join City To Build New Sewage Plant

Container Corporation of America has offered to join the city of Circleville in the construction and operation of a new sewage treatment facility to process the wastes of the company and the rest of the city.

The proposal for the joint project was presented to the Commission by Henry J. Schroeder, division general manager of Container Corporation of America.

The rate which Container Corporation will pay for waste treatment will be determined by an annual study which the company will also help pay for. Secondary treatment facilities for sewage from the city and the company mill need to be installed in order to conform with water quality standards adopted by the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board for waters of the Scioto River Basin.

ACCEPTANCE of the Container Corporation proposal by the city of Circleville will pave the way for construction of a modern treatment plant which will be engineered to meet anticipated sewage treatment needs between now and the year 2000. Container Corporation has expressed its willingness to sign a 30-year contract with the city for the treatment of its industrial wastes.

To allow the city to begin engineering studies for the new plant, the company submitted a letter of agreement in which it offers to share the costs and defines the plant capacity the company desires to reserve for the treatment of its waste effluent.

Schroeder indicated that the maximum amount of company effluent which the new plant will be required to treat will be 1,200,000 gallons daily containing a maximum 12,000-pound load of biological oxygen demanding materials and a maximum of 5,000 pounds of suspended solids.

Viet Reds Overrun Village; Air Strikes Aid Cambodians

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Heavily armed Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces overrun the Cambodian defenders of a village nine miles from Phnom Penh today and pushed to within six miles of the capital.

Air strikes continued as an estimated three enemy battalions pushed southward from the village of Prek Tameak, which is northeast of the capital and on the other side of the Mekong River.

One reinforced Cambodian battalion was reported holding out on the Prek Tameak side of the river. A spokesman in Phnom Penh said fighting was continuing at Prek Tameak with heavy casualties on both sides. But newsmen who drove to a point across the river from the village found everything quiet.

Troops in the area said a large number of Cambodian soldiers left Prek Tameak by boat Wednesday night, taking their wounded with them. Cambodian and South Vietnamese gunboats were positioned on the river to provide covering fire during the night.

At least two villagers were wounded during the night by what they said was unprovoked fire from the gunboats, but a Cambodian captain on the scene said the villagers were hit by Viet Cong fire from across the river, which at that point is nearly a mile wide.

Prek Tameak, a village of thatched houses and a few Chinese shops, has been attacked three times. Once the Viet Cong held it for three days. The Cambodian command has long feared enemy attempts to secure positions in the wooded lands just across the river from Phnom Penh. From there they could harass the capital with rocket and mortar fire.

In Saigon, the U.S. Command would neither confirm nor deny that American bombers were supporting the Cambodians. An American spokesman said "interdiction" raids are flown in Cambodia every day, but "we don't discuss specific locations or targets."

In the northern part of South Vietnam, some Americans were killed and some wounded in a mortar attack on a night camp of troops of the 101st Airborne Division one mile north of Fire Base Barnett and 16 miles southwest of the provincial capital of Quang Tri. The U.S. Command said American casualties were light.

South Vietnamese troops clashed with enemy forces farther north, near Fire Base Fuller, and reported killing eight of the enemy. One government soldier was reported wounded.

U.S. Strategic Air Command B52 bombers began their eighth week of heavy raids in border areas of Laos and South Vietnam. About 40 of the big Stratofortresses dropped 1,200 tons of bombs on both sides of the border.

Red China Tries To Upset Middle East Peace Efforts

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China has made it clear it opposes the Israeli-Arab cease-fire and supports continued resistance by Palestinian guerrillas.

But China faces a dilemma as to how to exploit its position in the Middle East in face of the acceptance of the cease-fire by Egypt and Jordan. In backing the guerrillas, Red China plainly runs the risk of alienating Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser. On the other hand, if the U.S. peace plan breaks down, it will be in a position to say "we told you so."

The fact remains that though the Chinese have long insisted they—and not the Russians or the Americans—are the true friends of the Arabs, their hearts have been with the guerrillas who espouse Mao Tse-tung's philosophy of protracted war.

Hsinhua quoted approvingly on Aug. 13 the words of an Al Fatah guerrilla: "As taught by Chairman Mao, our principle is to fight a strategically protracted war and campaigns or battles of quick decision."

One of the leaders of a training camp for guerrillas was quoted by Hsinhua as saying: "U.S. imperialism is stepping up its plot of 'peaceful solution' of the Middle East question. Our reply is to enlist and train more Palestinian and Arab youth as guerrilla fighters and conduct more battles. Chairman Mao, the great leader of the Chinese people, has taught us: 'U.S. imperialism, which looks like a huge monster, is in essence a paper tiger, now in the throes of its death-bed struggle.'"

Bruce Boycotts Talks In Paris

PARIS (AP) — David K. E. Bruce stayed away from the Vietnam peace talks today, touching off speculation that he would boycott the weekly sessions until the chief delegates from North Vietnam and the Viet Cong return to the table.

Bruce, the new chief U.S. delegate to the talks, was represented today by his deputy and predecessor, Philip C. Habib, who said his chief was spending the day working at his office.

Asked if Bruce's absence was the start of a retaliatory boycott, Habib replied: "No comment."

Claims Mob Was Bent On Murder

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The field commander of Ohio National Guard troops on the Kent State University campus May 4 said today no order was given for guardsmen to fire.

Brig. Gen. Robert Canterbury, assistant Ohio adjutant general, said a yelling mob, was "closing in" on guardsmen when the troops started shooting.

Canterbury appeared before the Presidential Commission on Campus Unrest during its second day of hearings into the disturbances in which four Kent State students were shot to death and nine others were injured.

Canterbury said the troops were on a return trip over a grassy knoll to clear the campus of demonstrators. He said guardsmen were at the top of the hill when the mob started closing in.

"Several hundred were closing in on our right flank," he said. "These people were charging—yelling, 'kill the pigs, stick the pigs!'"

Canterbury said the first sound he heard was a single shot. "This was closely followed by a volley fired by guardsmen."

"Did you give an order for guardsmen to turn and kneel toward the students?" the commission counsel asked.

"No," replied Canterbury. "We canvassed all officers to determine if anyone had given an order to fire," Canterbury said. "The answer was negative."

Upon hearing the shots, Canterbury said he immediately ran to the right flank, "grabbed two people on the shoulders and yelled 'cease fire', as did the other officers."

The company of guardsmen, totaling 96 men and eight officers, then marched on over the hill and down to a flat area referred to as "the commons."

Canterbury said he then ordered an ammunition check and a list of names of any guardsmen who had fired their weapons.

An Ohio guardsman, he said, can fire his weapon without an officer's approval only upon two conditions. He said one of them was to return fire on a sniper and the other was in defense of his own life.

Ammo Hulk Being Sunk In Ocean

EARLE, N.J. (AP) — A ship loaded with 5,000 tons of explosives was en route today to its final resting place, the sea bottom 7,200 feet deep and 135 miles off the Maryland coast.

The vessel, in tow of a tugboat, left Sandy Hook Wednesday and was to be sunk on arrival at the selected spot.

U.S. Navy officials said sea valves would be opened allowing water to pour into the vessel for the sinking.

The Navy switched the site of the sinking Tuesday. The original site, 150 miles off Barnegat Light, was less than a mile from where a ship filled with obsolete mustard gas and contaminated gas canisters was sunk in May 1967.

A Navy spokesman said that there was "no danger" that any accidental explosion during the sinking would rupture containers of mustard gas but that the Navy decided to change the site because of "public opinion."

The new site is 111 miles southeast of Barnegat Light and 88 miles southwest of the ship containing mustard gas, the spokesman said.

The Naval spokesman said the "conventional type" explosives had come from Army installations across the country.

No explosion is expected, a Navy spokesman said, but added that some of the explosives might be detonated by increased water pressure.

Say KSU Action May Set Pattern

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Any disturbances at Kent State University this fall may set the pattern for similar uprisings throughout the country, the President's Commission on Campus Unrest was told Wednesday.

"Whatever Kent State does the whole country will do," said former student Robert P. Pickett. "Universities throughout the world look to Kent State."

Pickett, a University of Michigan law student and a 1970 graduate of Kent, said the May 4th confrontation with Ohio National Guardsmen that left four students dead has put the school in the vanguard of the protest movement.

The commission, headed by former Pennsylvania Governor William Scranton, is in its second day of hearings into the disturbances. It was repeatedly warned of possible trouble when the fall term begins.

The school administration and the Ohio National Guard came under attack during opening day testimony.

At the same time there was praise for the professionalism and restraint of the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Ohio Adj. Gen. S. T. Del Corso told the commission he favored equipping guardsmen with shotguns armed with low-velocity buckshot for use in civil disturbances.

Upon questioning by Rivius Ortique Jr., a commission member and former president of the American Bar Association, Del Corso said he was not willing to urge a ban on high powered weapons.

"When there is violence, troops must have weapons to protect themselves," he said.

Guardsmen on the campus during the disturbances were equipped with .30 caliber, M-1 rifles.

Del Corso said many of the rifles are now being replaced with the automatic M-16.

"At this moment, you aren't willing to recommend to the government that .30 caliber weapons be banned from the campuses?" asked Ortique.

"That's right," said Del Corso. "To do that would be to disarm the Guard."

Asked if the guard would use the new automatic weapons on campuses, Del Corso said, "We will have to have the individual bring the weapon with which he is armed."

Chester Williams, campus safety director, testified that the Guard was called onto the campus May 2, two days before the fatal shootings, when dissident students burned the campus ROTC building.

Williams told the commission he had "never seen a more vicious looking group" than the students who burned the building.

He said he did not send campus police to the fire because "the building was not worth a life."

"Persons bent on destruction have no place on our campuses," Williams said.

Pickett, however, declared that blame should be shared. "Violence is a two-way street," Pickett said.

President Flies To Mexico

Border Problems To Be Discussed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon flies to the Mexican resort of Puerto Vallarta today for a discussion of border problems with President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz of Mexico.

A planeload of top advisers and their wives planned to make the 4½-hour flight with President and Mrs. Nixon, and travel with them from Mexico to the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif., Friday.

Puerto Vallarta, a Pacific coast town of 6,000, has become a popular resort since "Night of the Iguana," starring Richard Burton and Ava Gardner, was filmed there.

The trip has been described by the White House as a working visit which will include discussions ranging from foreign policy to narcotics.

The two presidents will entertain each other and their parties at formal lunches today and Friday, with their private talks scheduled this afternoon in a second-floor conference room of the oceanfront Hotel Delfin.

Some administration sources indicate agreements may be announced afterward on the shifting Rio Grande River boundary between the two countries and the troubling salination of Colorado River waters that both neighbors use.

Another chief topic listed by Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, is the continuing "Operation Cooperation," an effort to halt the flow of marijuana, heroin and other dangerous drugs from Mexico into the United States.

It is Nixon's second meeting with President Diaz Ordaz. They met last September to dedicate Amistad Dam near Del Rio, Tex.

Guerrillas Mum On Next Move With Hostages

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The Tupamaro guerrillas remained silent today on their plans for two kidnapped foreigners. Police, facing the possibility the strategy is being directed from inside jail, tried to isolate captured guerrilla leaders from the outside world.

No authenticated messages have been received from the guerrillas since Aug. 11, when they reported in a communique that American agronomist Claude L. Fly, 65, and Brazilian consul Aloysio Mares Dias Gomide, 41, were in good health.

Police reported on Wednesday the discovery of a letter from a jailed Tupamaro leader to another guerrilla chief urging the terrorists to remain silent because they had more to gain the longer the two hostages were held.

The letter, written on nine cigarette papers, was sent to Raul Sendic, a founder of the organization, and was found in the suburban house where he and eight other Tupamaros were captured Aug. 7.

Volunteer Army Proposal Studied By U.S. Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — With unsuccessful efforts to curb the Safeguard antimissile system out of the way, the Senate is plunging into a new controversy over replacing the draft with an all-volunteer Army.

Leaders of an unusual coalition seeking to junk the draft say debate will be extensive. And unless they get an agreement permitting a straight yes or no vote on merits of the question, they say they just might keep on talking.

The Safeguard issue was laid to rest Wednesday when the Senate voted 53-45 against an amendment by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., that would have barred ABM expansion to two new sites and used the $322 million saved to bolster defenses at the two sites authorized last year.

Then, on an 87-2 roll call, it crushed an amendment by Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., that would have required governors to obtain presidential permission before issuing weapons and live ammunition to National Guard troops in civil disorders.

Only Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., voted with McCarthy for the amendment which was triggered by criticism of the role of Ohio National Guard troops in the killing of four students at Kent State University last May.

Beginning with a squabble over time to be allotted, the Senate then began consideration of the volunteer Army amendment by Sens. Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Barry Goldwater of Arizona, two Republicans found on opposite sides of many issues.

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., of the Armed Services Committee declared both the White House and Pentagon have said they oppose the move, at least for the moment and certainly as an amendment to the pending $19.2 billion military procurement bill.

Stennis said it would be the height of irresponsibility to adopt the Hatfield-Goldwater amendment and added: "Nothing would be more damaging to our national security."

Hatfield explained his amendment is a legislative bid to adopt the recommendations of the Gates Commission on the draft, which includes abolishing it in favor of inducements designed to provide a sufficient number of volunteers.

He emphasized it would not immediately stop inductions and declared: "It would not jeopardize (Continued on Page 2)

Tropic Storm Threatens Martinique

MIAMI (AP) — Packing winds up to 70 miles per hour, Tropical Storm Dorothy today plowed a course toward the island resort of Martinique and threatened the entire leeward chain.

The big storm's center was expected to strike Martinique about noon today, the Weather Bureau said.

Storm warnings and a hurricane watch were posted for the windward islands from St. Lucia northward and for all the leeward islands, forecasters said. The two groups are about 1,200 miles southeast of Miami.

"Being in close proximity to the center, the islands of St. Lucia, Martinique, Dominica, Desirade and Guadeloupe will experience maximum exposure to the storm," the Weather Bureau said.

Reconnaissance planes early today placed Dorothy near latitude 14.1 north, longitude 59.0 west, or about 130 miles east of Lucia.

Pilots said the storm was moving northwest at about 17 m.p.h.

"Gale force winds extended outward 100 miles in the northeast semicircle and 50 miles in the southwest semicircle," the Weather Bureau said.

Little change in direction or intensity was forecast.

Say KSU Action May Set Pattern

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Any disturbances at Kent State University this fall may set the pattern for similar uprisings throughout the country, the President's Commission on Campus Unrest was told Wednesday.

"Whatever Kent State does the whole country will do," said former student Robert P. Pickett. "Universities throughout the world look to Kent State."

Pickett, a University of Michigan law student and a 1970 graduate of Kent, said the May 4th confrontation with Ohio National Guardsmen that left four students dead has put the school in the vanguard of the protest movement.

The commission, headed by former Pennsylvania Governor William Scranton, is in its second day of hearings into the disturbances.

It was repeatedly warned of possible trouble when the fall term begins.

The school administration and the Ohio National Guard came under attack during opening day testimony.

At the same time there was praise for the professionalism and restraint of the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Ohio Adj. Gen. S. T. Del Corso told the commission he favored equipping guardsmen with shotguns armed with low-velocity buckshot for use in civil disturbances.

Upon questioning by Rivius Ortique Jr., a commission member and former president of the American Bar Association, Del

Corso said he was not willing to urge a ban on high powered weapons.

"When there is violence, troops must have weapons to protect themselves," he said.

Guardsmen on the campus during the disturbances were equipped with .30 caliber, M-1 rifles.

Del Corso said many of the rifles are now being replaced with the automatic M-16.

"At this moment, you aren't willing to recommend to the government that .30 caliber weapons be banned from the campuses?" asked Ortique.

"That's right," said Del Corso. "To do that would be to disarm the Guard."

Asked if the guard would use the new automatic weapons on campuses, Del Corso said, "We will have to have the individual bring the weapon with which he is armed."

Chester Williams, campus safety director, testified that the Guard was called onto the campus May 2, two days before the fatal shootings, when dissenting students burned the campus ROTC building.

Williams told the commission he had "never seen a more vicious looking group" than the students who burned the building.

He said he did not send campus police to the fire because "the building was not worth a life."

"Persons bent on destruction have no place on our campuses," Williams said.

Pickett, however, declared that blame should be shared.

"Violence is a two-way street," Pickett said.

has and defoliant could still be used in Vietnam.

"It is the United States understanding of the Protocol that it does not prohibit the use in war of riot-control agents and chemical herbicides," Rogers said.

"Smoke, flame and napalm are also not covered by the Protocol."

Officials said the administration takes the position that last year's General Assembly 80-3 vote declaring tear gas and herbicides are covered by the Protocol is without standing in international law.

"The standing is that everyone in the world wants it that way," Nelson said. "If that is their interpretation, I disagree with it."

Portugal, Australia and the United States opposed the General Assembly action.

"Is military service to be equated with a jail sentence?" Goldwater asked.

"Or will it be seen as an honorable profession for which people will be willing to volunteer if they are offered a decent salary with fringe benefits similar to civilian opportunities?"

Stennis said Laird estimated implementation of the amendment would cost at least $4 billion a year.

Census Goofed; Lakeline Mayor Wants Recount

LAKELINE, Ohio (AP) — Like most of the nation's major cities, the Lake County community of Lakeline has demanded a census recount.

"Somebody goofed," Mayor Lawrence Ash said when the unofficial census showed Lakeline's population fell from 269 in 1960 to 109 people in 1970.

"We have 85 or 87 houses," Ash said. "A lot of people must be living alone." He estimated the population to be 250.

Ash said he thought that census takers forgot to count the homes on two of the community's three streets, thinking they were part of the city of Eastlake.

the amount actually needed by the company," Schroeder stated, "and are expected to be in excess of future needs since the amount of industrial waste generated by the plant will decrease when the company adds more efficient water treatment facilities at its own plant."

"These new facilities will include additional pulp washing machines and sophisticated filtering equipment which will lower the amount of waste materials in the paper mill effluent," Schroeder said. He estimated that suspended solids in water delivered to the plant for treatment will be filtered down to 3,000 to 3,500 pounds per day.

Waste water flow from the Container Corporation mill to the sewage treatment plant presently averages between 500,000 and 600,000 gallons daily. "The new equipment we will install represents a continuation of our policy of applying the latest proven technology to reduce the waste material generated by our mill."

THE most dramatic item in this continuing program, according to Mr. Schroeder, was the installation of the Container-Copeland process to dispose of the black liquor which is an unwanted by-product of the neutral sulphite semi-chemical process which the Circleville pulp mill uses to separate paper fibres from hardwood logs.

The process was invented by George G. Copeland, former chief engineer for pulping development at the company's mill in Carthage, Indiana. The process uses a series of evaporators to concentrate the waste pulp mill water to a level that permits controlled oxidation in a reactor which employs a fluid bed process similar to that used in petroleum refining.

All organic waste materials are burned, and the inorganic residue is concentrated into chemical pellets which are useable as a raw material by paperboard mills using the kraft process. Exhaust gases are scrubbed free of foreign particles, resulting in a relatively pure air and steam discharge into the atmosphere and a relatively pure water discharge.

Installation of this system at the Circleville mill has reduced the daily basic oxygen demand load to between 6,000 and 8,000 pounds daily, which is well below the 12,000 pound daily minimum established for the

Baldwin Piano Company Closes Cincinnati Plant

CINCINNATI (AP) — The D. H. Baldwin Co. Wednesday ordered grand piano assembly operations at its Cincinnati plant closed down and moved to plants in Arkansas.

Lucien Wulsin, chairman of the board, in a prepared statement, said the change would affect 100 workers in Cincinnati. The firm, chartered in 1882, had been making pianos in Cincinnati since 1890.

Wulsin blamed general economic conditions and increasing competition from Japanese manufacturers. About 75 wood working personnel would be kept, the firm said.

The firm assembles pianos at Conway, Ark., and makes organs at Fayetteville, Ark.

Child Assault Case Postponed

A Circleville man, charged with assaulting a minor, was sent to the Scioto Valley Jail Vocational Center for observation Thursday morning following a hearing in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Walter Rayburn, 48, of 228 Town St., changed his plea of not guilty to guilty in this morning's session. He was indicted by the April grand jury for assault on a 13-year-old girl. Judge Ammer ordered Rayburn sent to the Ross County center for an indefinite period. He will be returned to the local court for sentencing when tests are completed.

Charles Hurst, Lancaster, also indicted by the April grand jury, entered a guilty plea for non-support. Hurst was given one year probation on the provision that he pay the $5 regular support payments and the $2.50 on arrearage of $130.

new sewage treatment plant. Container Corporation has conducted several engineering studies during recent years to determine the most practical method of treating the combined wastes of the city and its pulp mill.

Following these studies, the city recently engaged the New York engineering firm of Hazen & Sawyer to conduct a similar engineering study. The result of this study was a recommendation by the firm that sewage from the city and the plant be treated in a single facility to achieve the greatest economy and efficiency of operation.

"By sharing the costs," Schroeder said, "we expect that both the company and the city will spend less money."

The present Circleville sewage treatment plant was built jointly by Container Corporation and the city on a site owned by the company.

When the present plant was constructed in 1937, it was one of the most forward-looking cooperative city-industry arrangements. Costs of this operation have been shared by the city and the company since that time.

County To Open Schools Sept. 1

County School Superintendent Jud Lanman announced today that all county schools will open Sept. 1 this year.

Logan Elm and Westfall will have a full day of school Tuesday. The cafeterias will be open on the first day.

Teays Valley will run their normal schedule in the morning but dismiss one hour early in the afternoon. School for students attending the Eastland Vocational School will begin Monday, Aug. 31. Students may purchase their lunches at Teays Valley schools on the first day.

Lanman noted that three vacancies still remained in the Westfall school district. In the high school there are openings in the business education and guidance sections. A remedial reading teacher is needed at Monroe school. With the exception of a speech and hearing therapist wanted for employment at Teays Valley, all other faculties have been completed.

A meeting of all local superintendents and principals in the county school district is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Aug. 27.

Wage Fight Against Fleas In Factory

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — An employee of a Cleveland area metal fabricating plant says the plant is infested with fleas and "it's gotten so bad, you need a third hand to scratch with while you work."

Joseph Sams, a 14-year employee of Allied Metals Corp. in suburban Brooklyn, is waging a fight to rid the plant of fleas and the dozen cats which live there and are believed to be the carriers.

"It's just miserable for all of us and our wives are giving us the devil for carrying fleas home," said Sams, chief steward of Local 468, Ornamental Iron Workers.

A company spokesman said Wednesday "there is a little flea problem," but an exterminator was coming in today to take care of it.

Sams said the 12 cats are strays that live in the plant. "It started with just a couple of cats, but they reproduced and now we got more than we know what to do with," he added.

Linda Bowers Speaker For Church Sunday

Miss Linda Bowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bowers, 921 Circle Drive, will be the speaker in both the 8:30 Drive-In and the 10:45 worship service in the Community United Methodist Church Sunday morning.

Miss Bowers is a graduate of Circleville High School, class of 1966. She finished the course in nursing at the University of Kentucky this spring and plans to continue graduate work there this fall.

This summer, along with five other young ladies, Linda has worked in Phoenix, Ariz., in the U.S. Government Hospital for American Indians. Last summer she worked in a similar health project among Appalachian Mountain people. These experiences will be reviewed on Sunday morning.

There will be a coffee hour following the drive-in service.

South Central Power Management Team Has 143 Years Of Experience

The five-man management team of South Central Power, a Lancaster based, locally owned, power company, has accumulated a total of 143 years experience in a relatively young industry.

Darwin Kindler, general manager, has spent his entire business career in rural electrification. After joining the struggling young company in 1936, he played an important part in the development of South Central as Ohio's largest rural electric co-operative.

The company has grown from a handful of members and only a few miles of wire along country roads to more than 33,000 consumers and a transmission network of 5,000 miles — covering 18 counties and 3400 square miles.

In 1938, S. J. (Bud) Fisher, now director of public relations, joined the company. During his 32-year career he helped create a public image for South Central that has placed it in high regard throughout the community which it serves.

ALBERT Aebersold, comptroller, was employed by the firm in 1941 and has been active in the financial operations department for 28 years. Since 1942 Robert Swinehart has held the position of director of operations. William Ridge, chief engineer has had his responsibilities multiply in the 21 years since joining South Central in 1949.

This five-man team, with a total of 143 years of experience, directs the day-to-day operations of one of the nation's most forward-looking rural electric cooperatives.

South Central Power recorded another year of steady growth, according to the just-released 34th annual report. Despite an increase in the cost of raw materials and wages, the company was still able to deliver a kilowatt hour to its consumers for less money in 1969 than in the previous year.

According to general manager, Kindler, Electric energy sales for South Central increased by almost 10 per cent during the past year.

This accounted for a gain in revenue of more than 7 percent. Sales records show that approximately 356 million kilowatt hours of electricity were supplied to more than 33,000 residential, commercial and industrial consumers served by the company.

Total depreciated assets of South Central are more than $22 million, and plant investment is up by $1-1/2 million.

SELECTION of a site is now under way for a new electric power source to be completed by South Central, as part of Buckeye Power Co., within five years. Plans for the new facility, designed to render the best possible service to consumers, were revealed by John W. Eakin, president of South Central, in the company's 34th annual report.

The report was made public at the annual meeting held today at the Fairfield County Fairgrounds, Lancaster.

Much of the best recreational acreage in Ohio, drawing increasing thousands of tourists every year, lies in the 3400 square mile area served by South Central Power. Located between Columbus and Cincinnati, the region attracts many residents of those cities because of its outstanding recreational facilities, which are now being expanded by the state of Ohio.

According to Kindler, new recreational improvements are under way at Old Man's Cave, Deer Creek Reservoir and Paint Creek Dam.

The information was brought out in the power company's 34th annual report Thursday.

Engineers for South Central keep in close touch with officials responsible for these development programs. Advance surveys have been made and necessary transmission equipment will be provided when needed. Installation of electric service can be completed within a few days for many locations.

Local Police Busy During Night Trick

The Circleville Police Department was busy Wednesday night investigating three breaking and entering cases and a stolen auto case.

An attempted breaking and entering was reported at 10 p.m. by Ernie Lindsey, owner of Lindsey's Coffee Bar. Lindsey reported that someone had attempted to pry open the front door of the building with a screwdriver.

Two other B and E cases were not released by the department pending further investigation.

A 1964 Chevelle Malibu was taken from Yates Buick, 1220 S. Court St. sometime during the night. The auto was valued at $695.

Henry Mankey, 203 W. Mound St., reported to the local police that someone had taken a lawnmower from his yard sometime Wednesday night. The mower was valued at $25 by Mankey.

Sheriff Checks Two Theft Cases

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department investigated a grand larceny case and a petty theft case during the night.

John Nutter reported to the department that someone had taken two truck radiators from his trucks on the Circleville - Lockbourne Road between Tuesday and Wednesday. The radiators were valued at $130.

A petty larceny case at the Columbus Metropolitan Park on the Harrisburg - Fairfield Road was also checked by the Sheriff's Department Wednesday.

The theft of $30 worth of camping equipment from a building on the property is still being investigated.

Intangible Taxes Hit Record In State

The local governments of Ohio shared in the payment of a record $56.8 million in intangible tax collections, State Auditor Roger Cloud reported today.

The disbursement of $56,838,237.17 was an increase of $1,980,651 over the previous high, recorded last year. The current payment included $54,808,991.99 derived from the two-mill tax on deposits in financial institutions, and $2,029,245.18 from the five-mill tax on productive investments and capital employed by dealers in intangibles.

Pickaway County received $108,767.84 from both taxes.

The intangible taxes, together with the $3 million distributed monthly out of sales tax collections, constitute the local government fund.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — CBS, on Sept. 16, will drop a new series into its channels, "Storefront Lawyers." This should not be confused—although it almost certainly will be—with "The Young Lawyers," a new series which ABC will launch less than a week later.

ABC spun its series off a two-hour made-for-TV feature, and will wrap the plots around some young law students in Boston who, working out of a neighborhood law office, provide free assistance to the poor and get courtroom experience. '70 Ballots Prescribed By Brown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans will have four slates of candidates for governor and the U. S. Senate, as well as three constitutional amendments when they go to the polls in November.

The 1970 general election ballots for Ohio's 88 counties were prescribed Wednesday by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, and contain the names of Socialist Labor Party candidates for governor and U. S. Senate, as well as candidates from the American Independent Party, Democrats and Republicans.

A U. S. District Court ordered the Socialist Labor Party candidates on the ballot several weeks ago after the party challenged Ohio election laws.

The proposed constitutional amendments would:

— Allow laws reducing property taxes on homes of persons 65 or older.

— Reduce voter residency requirements from one year to six months.

— Allow newspaper notice of municipal charter amendments, instead of requiring they be mailed.

Teacher Aides Start Wilberforce Training

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP) — Some 100 adult teacher aides begin training this week with the teachers in whose classrooms they will be working next month.

The aides are in the third week of a $700,000, federally-funded "Career Opportunities Program" designed to prepare them for work in west Dayton schools. The program is being conducted by Central State University.

The 100 adults, ranging in age from 19 to 50, will continue work toward four-year degrees in education by attending late afternoon and evening classes at Central State.

It costs the Indian government 19.6 rupees ($2.61) to collect every 1,000 rupees ($133) in taxes, according to an official statement.

Woman's Labor Saves Airplane

TOKYO (AP) — Because a woman complained of labor pains, police foiled the hijacking of a Japanese airliner Wednesday.

Officials said police sneaked aboard the Boeing 727 at the Hamamatsu air base during the confusion after the woman said she was about to give birth. The police tackled the hijacker from behind and found he was armed with a toy pistol, the officials said.

The All Nippon Airways plane had taken off from Nagoya bound for Sapporo with 81 persons aboard. Shortly after, a slim Japanese man about 25 years old pulled what appeared to be a pistol on the pilot and ordered him to land at Hamamatsu, 125 miles southwest of Tokyo.

The landing was made safely and about 50 passengers were allowed to get off the plane almost immediately. The hijacker held the others and demanded that he be given a sniper rifle with telescopic sights, 100 rounds of ammunition and two five-gallon cans of gasoline.

Push Germ War Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon submitted Wednesday to the Senate for ratification of a 45-year-old treaty outlawing gas warfare, contending it would not prohibit use of de-foliants or tear gas.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, senior Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee, predicted "clear sailing" for the 1925 Geneva protocol because of Nixon's interpretations it will allow use of such chemicals as tear gas and herbicides.

"It probably won't have any serious difficulty in clearing the Foreign Relations Committee and the Senate," Aiken said. "It depends on what he says about tear gas."

Nixon previewed his message for congressional leaders Tuesday. His interpretation, they said, is that the agreement covers only gases harmful to man. Defoliants—such as are used in the Vietnam war—are exempted because they were not known when the treaty was drawn.

The issue of defoliating chemicals has been a major reason for delay in submission of the treaty to the Senate since Nixon announced his intention last December, sources say.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — CBS, on Sept. 16, will drop a new series into its channels, "Storefront Lawyers." This should not be confused—although it almost certainly will be—with "The Young Lawyers," a new series which ABC will launch less than a week later.

ABC spun its series off a two-hour made-for-TV feature, and will wrap the plots around some young law students in Boston who, working out of a neighborhood law office, provide free assistance to the poor and get courtroom experience. The series is more or less restricted to Massachusetts since it is one of a few states which permit student-lawyers to function before passing bar examinations.

CBS's project has three young full-fledged but fledgling lawyers, providing free legal help to the needy in a Los Angeles slum setting.

Crime Task Forces

An organized crime task force consisting of representatives of the FBI, Secret Service, Internal Revenue Service, Post Office, Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, Securities, and Exchange Commission and Bureau of Customs, among others, it is a potent weapon capable of hitting organized crime in almost any part of its operations.

Such task forces now are operating in several cities. Taking the cooperative effort one crucial step further, federal task forces in New York City and Newark, N. J., also are combining their talents with state and local law enforcement agencies.

Out of it all ought to come some dramatic breakthroughs in the war on crime. If nothing more, the concerted effort should break up the axis of crime underlings in some of the nation's major cities.

But if the underworld merely disbands and moves on to territories not involved in the task force program of the Justice Department, the concept will lose some of its potency. As federal prosecutions in New York and New Jersey indicate, that has not been the case.

Organized crime is not something which can be stamped out overnight, but the crime increase in the nation over the last decade tells plainly that nothing short of a concerted effort by all forces involved in law enforcement can do the job.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Theodore Lamont Cross has had a rare and enviable experience. Called to Washington last December to devise a new program, he not only shaped it, but saw it accepted and funded, all in just six months.

Now the nonprofit Opportunity Funding Corp., having received an initial grant of $7.4 million, is embarked on studies aimed at attracting private capital to low-income areas.

It will seek to learn, for example, if existing institutions can be enticed, perhaps with government guarantees, to accept allegedly high risk investments in ghetto areas.

The story behind the corporation contains a lesson for all those people who casually dismiss the problems of minority groups as little more than an attitude of mind rather than formal discrimination.

Cross, 46, former editor of the Harvard Law Review and now editor and publisher of the Bankers Magazine, officer in a publishing company and treasurer of the Sheraton Corp. of America, has suffered a little discrimination.

He is, as can be suspected, a solid member of the establishment. He not only understands it but, so to speak, has always had his foot in the door. The system worked for him and his clients, chief of which was the Sheraton hotel chain.

For 15 years Cross had worked with Sheraton's developers, Ernest Henderson and Robert L. Moore. He had seen how they made money grow, how they had parlayed a $25,000 investment during the 1930s into a half-billion dollar empire.

"They did it all with other people's money," said Cross. "They were masters of leverage."

Cross already had been applying some of his time to problems of the Negro community. Although Negroes made up 11 per cent of the population, he learned, they controlled only one per cent of the nation's capital.

In the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, for example, there are only two small banking units, although the population exceeds that of the city of Cincinnati, Ohio. The establishment didn't lend to Negroes. They were unable to obtain bonds, insurance, loans. For them, leveraging was impossible.

The explanations sounded good enough. Casualty insurers said ghetto businesses were overly risky. Life insurers said Negro mortality was too high. Bankers thought of them as poor businessmen.

Too much talent was being frustrated by the establishment, Cross felt. "I just wonder," he said this week, "was there a black Edwin Land lost to us in this manner?" Land invented the Polaroid camera.

Cross' thoughts eventually became a highly praised book, "Black Capitalism," subtitled "Strategy for Business in the Ghetto."

It's thesis is this: "We need a national scheme to make it possible for insurers, bonders, leasing companies, life and fire insurers and banks to do business in the black community. It should be a national vehicle."

Cross dismissed the notion that new institutions were needed and that the solution should be through handouts. The existing system, however, should be changed so as to serve rather than oppress.

Last December, Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, called Cross to Washington and asked him to put his ideas into a program, and that's how Opportunity Funding Corp. was formed.

WARNED that revenue agents were on their trail, a couple of moonshiners bestirred themselves to get rid of all incriminating evidence. Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My son had malaria while in the Air Force in the Far East. The doctors say he has completely recovered but there are a few things I would like to know. Can malaria come back? Why did his bouts of fever happen every day at the same time when he was sick?

Mr. G.J.R., South Carolina
Dear Mr. R.: The fact that your son has completely recovered from his malaria and has been given the assurance of good health means that there is very little chance of a recurrence.

Yet, all people who have recovered from malaria are asked to be on the lookout for the possibility of a flare-up in order to begin active treatment again. Sometimes, the malarial parasite can lie dormant, but this is comparatively rare.

There are a number of types of malarial parasites that produce recurring attacks of chills and fever. The wide use of insecticides and anti-mosquito chemicals has reduced the danger of the anopheles mosquito through whose bite malaria is introduced into the human body.

Your question about the cycle by which the patients can almost tell the time has been of great interest to doctors and scientists everywhere.

The life cycle of the protozoan parasite that grows in the red blood cells of the malarial patient has a very special biological clock mechanism. With one form of parasite, a patient may be comfortable and feel bright and cheerful all morning. Almost suddenly, at about twelve noon, he may feel achy, have a sensation of coldness and begin to shiver. This may progress for hours until he begins to perspire profusely. Then the temperature falls, leaving him in a state of total exhaustion.

This whole cycle may repeat itself in twenty-four or forty-eight hours depending on how the malarial parasites multiply in the blood stream of the infected patient.

This periodicity has been observed for many years and has been the target of scientific study during all that time. Many of the new drugs that have been developed have been aimed at killing the parasite during the time when it is most vulnerable within the blood cell.

Much is known through these scientific studies about each of the four major types of malarial parasites and how to prevent the complications of this disease which is still rampant in many areas of the world. The World Health Organization has been doing a magnificent job in the eradication of this threatening disease.

Illinois Dentist Enjoys Soaring

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — Soaring is Dr. Joe Emons' idea of a happy weekend.

Emons, a dentist, is a member of the St. Louis Soaring Association which features long-distance gliding.

On a recent Sunday glide, Emons soared 322 miles from Highland, Ill., to Springfield, Ohio, a record soar for the association.

Emons piloted his glider, "Libelle" as high as 6,000 feet during the 5 1/2-hour flight. Emons, 43, has been a soaring enthusiast since 1956. He had previously soared 247 miles in a triangular pattern. The national record is 600 miles.

Military-Industrial Complex

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Every time I pick up the Washington weekly called Human Events, which is fighting a notable battle to keep us from plowing under our defenses at a time when both the Russian and the Chinese Communists are improving their atomic offensive potential, I am moved to reflect on the irony of history. Human Events was the joint creation of the late Frank Hanighen and Felix Morley — and, in the case of Frank, it represented a brave confession of error. In the Nineteen Thirties Frank had been a vigorous part of the anti-war movement, which put its trust in isolationist Senators and in three thousand miles of billowing ocean.

It was a Hanighen book on the "merchants of death" that helped turn the du Ponts from munitions to nylon and had nearly every college sophomore cheering for the munitions muckrakers of the Nye Committee. But, after Yalta and the beginnings of the Cold War, Frank shifted his ground. Though he has been dead for several years now, his presidency is paying off, the magazine he started in leading a fight to keep us from repeating all the errors of the Thirties, errors which Frank, who had watched the coming of the intercontinental missile, freely admitted.

The battle to keep us from disarming, however, is a foregone one, and before we are through it will probably be the Thirties all over again. In place of Senator Nye we have Senator Proxmire, who can't wait to get in his daily goring of the Pentagon and the Military-Industrial Complex. Whether he knows it or not, Proxmire is the hero of the Communist Daily World, which features the Senator's attacks on anyone who advocates spending for the ABM, or MIRV, or for new aircraft carriers. The Daily World is unimportant in itself, but unfortunately its "line" gets picked up and repeated, reaching college campus publications that are hardly aware the Communists publish a paper.

The fashion today runs Proxmire's way, just as it ran Gerald Nye's way in the Thirties. But Proxmire is a more dangerous man than Nye for the simple reason that, if we ever fall disastrously behind the communists in our preparedness for war, we shall not get the year of grace that we had after Pearl Harbor for a belated rearmament. What was a year on the preparedness timetable of the Thirties and early Forties has now been reduced to something around ten minutes.

But who thinks of making such points when the Military-Industrial Complex is assailed? Senator Barry Goldwater and Senator Scoop Jackson speak up, but the people who write the books and the magazine articles do not. The sole book-length case for the Military Industrial Complex that I know is "The Lonely Warriors," by John Stanley Baumgartner. And, significantly, it was published in Los Angeles by Nash, not by any New York City publisher.

Mr. Baumgartner, a graduate of West Point and the Harvard Business School, who has been a parachutist, a contracting officer, and a management consultant, is deeply angry at the fly-specking criticism directed at the "lonely warriors" who have been responsible for keeping the "big war" at bay for twenty-five years. He does not attempt to defend the waste of dollars that goes with some of the cost overruns for military procurement, although he notes that the dollar decays and the machines get more complicated all the time. He points out that the proportion of Gross National Product that goes for defense has actually gone down, from around 10 per cent in 1967 to 8 per cent in 1970. The Military-Industrial Complex may be big, but less than one-sixth of the total business of the twenty-five largest defense contractors is defense-oriented. Only two of the big defense contracting companies, Lockheed and General Dynamics, would be unable in their present circumstances to get along without government orders. Mr. Baumgartner warns us that at least twenty-three of the bigtime defense manufacturers "may well turn away from defense and let less qualified firms carry the defense burden... as abuse and unwarranted criticism accumulate." It could be du Pont and nylon all over again.

We may need a reordering of priorities to serve our domestic troubles. However, Congress must have some perspective about our military stance. If it seems reasonable to close our overseas bases, it can't be reasonable at the same time to curtail the C5A program that would provide overseas airlift for our troops. And if we can't have airfield rights in North Africa and Italy, we shouldn't be so quick to get rid of our aircraft carriers. Without some recurrence of common sense we are doomed to repeat the mistakes of the Thirties, and the next Pearl Harbor would be the end.

NO-FAULT AUTO INSURANCE goes into effect in Massachusetts as Gov. Francis W. Sargent signs the bill into law in Boston. Mainly, under this law, insurers are required to pay claims of policyholders for medical expenses, salary and other out-of-pocket losses up to $2,000 regardless of who is at fault in an auto accident. Thus a good deal of costly investigating is avoided.

FCC Ruling 'Clarified'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Federal Communications Commission has criticized news coverage of an FCC ruling that television networks must give more opportunity for antiwar spokesmen to be heard.

Dean Burch told a news conference Tuesday the ruling had been misinterpreted as requiring that antiwar spokesmen be given five prime-time television periods to rebut President Nixon's statements.

The commission, Burch said, "expressly rejected any principle embodying right of reply or rebuttal to the president. We specifically denied requests that a right of reply exists in anyone to respond to the president or any spokesman, whomever he may be, when speaking on a controversial issue of public importance."

In announcing the ruling, the FCC noted that Nixon—as the major spokesman for one side of the war issue—had made five televised addresses since November 1969.

Considering Nixon's five addresses, the ruling held, those who oppose the Vietnam war should be given at least one more uninterrupted opportunity—but not necessarily five—to outline their views.

Hatlo's They'll Do It Every Time

Crime Task Forces

An organized crime task force consisting of representatives of the FBI, Secret Service, Internal Revenue Service, Post Office, Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, Securities, and Exchange Commission and Bureau of Customs, among others, it is a potent weapon capable of hitting organized crime in almost any part of its operations.

Such task forces now are operating in several cities. Taking the cooperative effort one crucial step further, federal task forces in New York City and Newark, N. J., also are combining their talents with state and local law enforcement agencies.

Out of it all ought to come some dramatic breakthroughs in the war on crime. If nothing more, the concerted effort should break up the axis of crime underlings in some of the nation's major cities.

But if the underworld merely disbands and moves on to territories not involved in the task force program of the Justice Department, the concept will lose some of its potency. As federal prosecutions in New York and New Jersey indicate, that has not been the case.

Organized crime is not something which can be stamped out overnight, but the crime increase in the nation over the last decade tells plainly that nothing short of a concerted effort by all forces involved in law enforcement can do the job.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Theodore Lamont Cross has had a rare and enviable experience. Called to Washington last December to devise a new program, he not only shaped it, but saw it accepted and funded, all in just six months.

Now the nonprofit Opportunity Funding Corp., having received an initial grant of $7.4 million, is embarked on studies aimed at attracting private capital to low-income areas.

It will seek to learn, for example, if existing institutions can be enticed, perhaps with government guarantees, to accept allegedly high risk investments in ghetto areas.

The story behind the corporation contains a lesson for all those people who casually dismiss the problems of minority groups as little more than an attitude of mind rather than formal discrimination.

Cross, 46, former editor of the Harvard Law Review and now editor and publisher of the Bankers Magazine, officer in a publishing company and treasurer of the Sheraton Corp. of America, has suffered a little discrimination.

He is, as can be suspected, a solid member of the establishment. He not only understands it but, so to speak, has always had his foot in the door. The system worked for him and his clients, chief of which was the Sheraton hotel chain.

For 15 years Cross had worked with Sheraton's developers, Ernest Henderson and Robert L. Moore. He had seen how they made money grow, how they had parlayed a $25,000 investment during the 1930s into a half-billion dollar empire.

"They did it all with other people's money," said Cross. "They were masters of leverage."

Cross already had been applying some of his time to problems of the Negro community. Although Negroes made up 11 per cent of the population, he learned, they controlled only one per cent of the nation's capital.

In the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, for example, there are only two small banking units, although the population exceeds that of the city of Cincinnati, Ohio. The establishment didn't lend to Negroes. They were unable to obtain bonds, insurance, loans. For them, leveraging was impossible.

The explanations sounded good enough. Casualty insurers said ghetto businesses were overly risky. Life insurers said Negro mortality was too high. Bankers thought of them as poor businessmen.

Too much talent was being frustrated by the establishment, Cross felt. "I just wonder," he said this week, "was there a black Edwin Land lost to us in this manner?" Land invented the Polaroid camera.

Cross' thoughts eventually became a highly praised book, "Black Capitalism," subtitled "Strategy for Business in the Ghetto."

It's thesis is this: "We need a national scheme to make it possible for insurers, bonders, leasing companies, life and fire insurers and banks to do business in the black community. It should be a national vehicle." Cross dismissed the notion that new institutions were needed and that the solution should be through handouts. The existing system, however, should be changed so as to serve rather than oppress.

Last December, Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, called Cross to Washington and asked him to put his ideas into a program, and that's how Opportunity Funding Corp. was formed.

WARNED that revenue agents were on their trail, a couple of moonshiners bestirred themselves to get rid of all incriminating evidence. It never was safe to engage in verbal battle with Dorothy Parker—particularly if anybody important was within earshot. "The misconception was by your MOTHER."

One of the most brazen free-loaders in the history of the Friars' Club once hit Restaurateur Vincent Sardi, a proverbial soft touch, for a fifty-dollar loan. Sardi handed over the fifty, which was acknowledged with a casual, "Thanks, pal. It's my wife's birthday and I'll need this money to buy her dinner at Dinty Moore's. Best food in town!"

Rogert Kahn recalls the baseball right-hander who suddenly realized one 2:30 a.m. that he had to pitch a very important game that same afternoon. "No more Stingers," he told the bartender firmly. "From now on, I'm sticking to whiskey."

DEAR ABBY: I am 23, married with a five-year-old son. My husband brings home Playboy magazine, which is not unusual for a man, but yesterday I saw our son sitting quietly, looking at the pictures.

I didn't yank the book away from him, I just told him that the book was "new" and his father hadn't read it yet, so he had better give it to me, which he did, but reluctantly. (He said he liked the pictures.)

Abby, I am not old fashioned. When my son asks a question about sex, I try to answer him the best I can for his age with the truth. This is hard for me to do because I never heard one word from my mother about sex.

I know some women don't like for their husbands to look at Playboy, but I really don't see anything wrong with it. But how about my son?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: I can't see anything wrong with a five-year-old boy looking at Playboy. It could, however, lead to disappointment and frustration when he reaches manhood and discovers all girls are not built like those he has seen in the centerfold.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is shy about disrobing in front of me. He covers up fast if he hears me coming. He sleeps in the altogether, but he never takes all his clothes off until the lights are out. I have never seen all of him, except for an occasional accidental glimpse. We have been married for 19 years, and believe it or not, we have a family.

After so long I wonder if there is something wrong with him for being that way? Or is there something wrong with me for wondering?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: The only thing "wrong" with your husband is his attitude about nudity. It's the way he was reared, no doubt. Since it doesn't seem to hamper your relationship, don't let it bother you. Maybe he's saving "all of himself" for your 25th wedding anniversary.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know who started that silly rule of etiquette that one should always leave something on his plate. To me, it's wasteful and sinful. If someone is served more than he can eat in a restaurant, it's understandable, but when I see people pile up a plate full of food and then leave half of it, I think it just shows their ignorance and greediness. What do you think?

HATES WASTE

DEAR HATES: Agreed. Anyone who helps himself, and then leaves half of it on the plate, may as well tell his hostess that her food wasn't nearly as good as it looked.

DEAR ABBY: Here is one secretary who really saw red when she came across that letter from "THE BOSS' WIFE" who was "jealous" because her husband "honored" his secretary during National Secretaries' Week.

She said the bosses send their secretaries flowers and take them out for lunch and dinner. Where did this happen? I didn't get any flowers, and as for lunch and dinner treat-my boss didn't take me, I took him, along with about 30 other secretaries who took their bosses. And by the way, it was a luncheon for secretaries who wanted to honor their bosses. And it came out of our pockets, not theirs.

So if you want to be jealous, all I can say is, "Eat your heart out,..." if you have one. SCRANTON, PA. SECRETARY

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Not All Women 'Centerfold Material'

DEAR ABBY: I am 23, married with a five-year-old son. My husband brings home Playboy magazine, which is not unusual for a man, but yesterday I saw our son sitting quietly, looking at the pictures.

I didn't yank the book away from him, I just told him that the book was "new" and his father hadn't read it yet, so he had better give it to me, which he did, but reluctantly. (He said he liked the pictures.)

Abby, I am not old fashioned. When my son asks a question about sex, I try to answer him the best I can for his age with the truth. This is hard for me to do because I never heard one word from my mother about sex.

Bridal Forum Scheduled Sunday In Chillicothe

This year's bride can be the best prepared housewife in history. Modern Bride Magazine and several local merchants are staging a "Bridal Forum" on Sunday, Aug. 30, at 2 p.m. at Glick's Furniture Co. Central Center, Chillicothe.

All area brides are encouraged to obtain their reserved seats, which are free of charge from any of the participating merchants or from Ross County Co-operative Extension Service.

This educational and informative program is similar to programs done all over the U.S.A.

The formal part of the program will include a presentation on "Wedding Etiquette" featuring Nancy Allen of Modern Bride Magazine. A talk on "How To Start Decorating Your First Home," by George Williamson and a beautiful wedding fashion show.

A jeweler will be on hand to give suggestions on gifts for bridesmaids and ushers, as well as for bride and groom. A lovely table setting of crystal, china and silver serves as a reminder of a bridal registry where a complete record is kept of the bride's choice of patterns.

From a representative of a bank a bride might find out "The nation's active money consists of four checking dollars for every cash dollar" and "if you do pay bills in cash, get a receipt."

Whatever amount of money you have to spend on your wedding, budget it so you can afford to do all the things that will make your wedding "the perfect wedding."

The florist advises us that it's the groom's responsibility to buy his bride a bridal bouquet and that the brides family takes care of the other wedding flowers.

A caterer will be serving some delicious punch to all the Bridal Forum guests. She will be on hand to offer suggestions as to what type of wedding reception would best serve the needs of each bride couple. A wedding cake and delicious samples will be served by a local bakery.

The Ross County Extension Agent, Jean Bauman, has had an active role in preparing this program. Miss Bauman feels that this is a wonderful opportunity for brides-to-be to obtain valuable information.

All sponsors will have interesting brochures to give to each girl and Modern Bride is furnishing delightful and colorful plastic shopping bags so that the literature may be taken home for further study.

At the conclusion of the program, a number of fabulous door prizes will be awarded. The grand prize will be a honeymoon flight to New York City and a four day stay at the New York Holiday Inn located in the heart of Manhattan close to Lincoln Center, Broadway Theaters, Radio City and fine shops. Each participating merchant will award a prize plus prizes from other Modern Bride advertisers.

Circleville area brides-to-be may call Penni Loudon, at the Pickaway County Extension office, 474-7534, to make arrangements for reservations.

McCain and Garry, Tarlton; Mrs. Leonard Mace, Lancaster and the honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. James H. McCain.

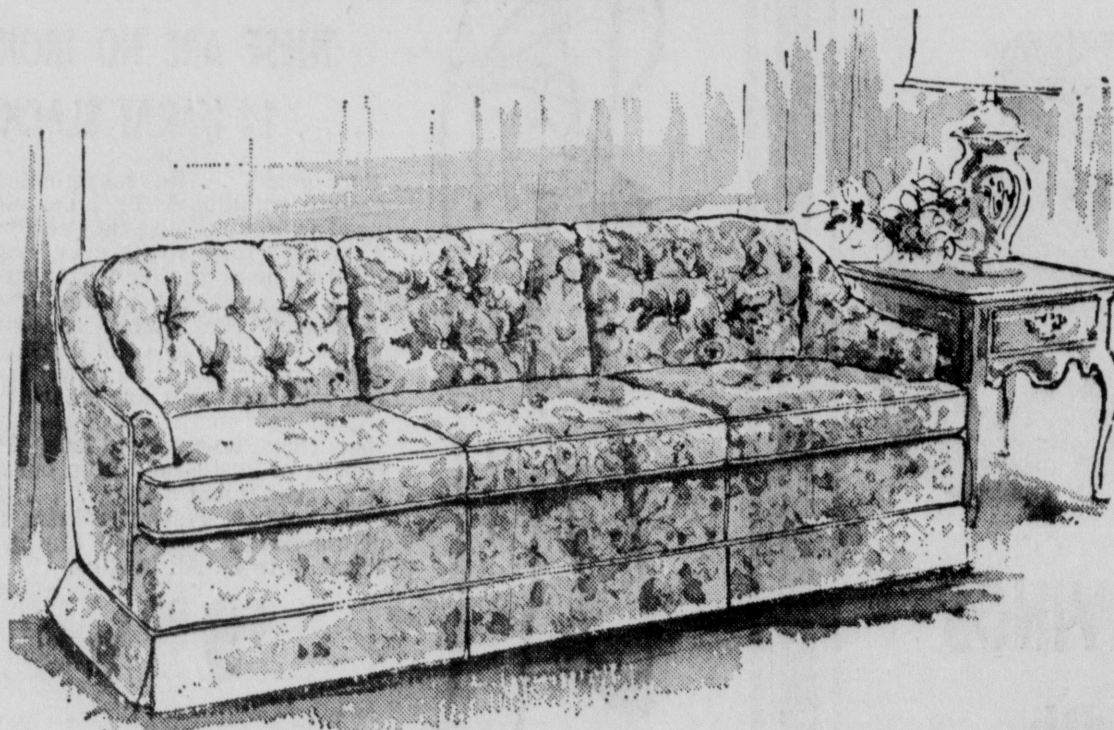

Games were played and music furnished by the McCain's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hanley of Baltimore.

Courses, which are of six-weeks' duration, beginning September 21 and February 22. Nurses who are interested are asked to contact the Mid-Ohio District of the Ohio Nurses Assn., Southern Hotel, Columbus, Ohio 43215 or call 224-1569. Applications are now being accepted. The course is free!

BEAUTIFUL BUSINESS — Jean Fissell, on the left, and Mary Koonce are shown looking for weeds and admiring the flowers blooming in the planter at the front of the Citgo Service Station on N. Court St. Included in the list of flowers planted by Robert Call and looked after by the office girls, are giant zinnias, petunias, cockscomb, geraniums and ageratum. A planter of evergreens and ivy is placed at the window of the downstairs office and a smaller plot matching the one in front is at the southwest corner of the lot. The Business For Beauty program is conducted by the Ohio Federation of Womens Clubs. National winners in the GFWC and Cities Service contest will be spotlighted at a Sept. 22 awards luncheon in Washington, D. C.

COMMON TALENT — Harry L. Woltz and Cheryl Lynn Baker, the oldest and youngest members of the musicians to perform at the annual Seesholtz Family Reunion are shown with the instruments with which they entertained the families.

Retired Teacher Assn. Board Meets

The executive board of the Pickaway County and Adjacent Area Chapter of the Retired Ohio Teachers Assn., Inc. met Tuesday to discuss plans for the September meeting of the association. Miss Mary Walters, vice president, was hostess for the meeting at her home 315 E. Main St.

Members of the board present were Dr. Lloyd Sprouse, president; Mrs. Frances Pritt, secretary; Mrs. Robert Bower, treasurer; Carl Bennett, Howard Hosler, Miss Florence Brown, Mrs. Ruby Wallon, Mrs. Clark Will and Miss Walters.

Personals

Miss Shirely Mason has returned to her home in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., after visiting with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mason, 146 Pleasant St.

Miss Mason is assistant chief of anesthesia, at Jackson Memorial Hospital, Miami, Fla. She recently has been appointed supervisor of the cardiopulmonary resuscitation program.

Mrs. Florence Baker, 295 Lewis Road, has returned home after spending six weeks with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Hostutler of Rochester, N. Y., and son and family, Mr. and Mrs. David Baker, Winchester, Mass.

Family Musicians Perform For Seesholtz Reunion

A musical program was featured at the annual reunion of the Seesholtz family held recently at Lancaster Fairgrounds. Richard L. Baker is president of the family association and Mrs. Cleo Seesholtz, secretary - treasurer. New officers for the coming year are Major Ramon Seesholtz, president and Mrs. Marie Karr, secretary - treasurer.

A noon dinner preceded the program. The oldest musician participating was Harry L. Woltz with his violin and the youngest was Cheryl Lynn Baker who plays the chord organ.

The Seesholtz family are noted for their musical ability. Harry L. Woltz, son of the late Mrs. Carrie Seesholtz Woltz, was born in 1891 in Hocking County, and has been playing the violin since the age of nine years. In 1926 he played the lead violin in an orchestra broadcasting by radio from Columbus. In a state-wide Fiddler's Contest held at Logan, he won first place for the years 1928, 1929 and 1930. Mr. Woltz played for weekly dances at the Rockhouse Dance Pavilion for 15 years. He is now retired and lives with his wife in Logan and continues to play the violin.

Cheryl Lynn Baker, age nine, has been playing the piano and chord organ for two years. Cheryl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Baker, New Albany, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Walter R. Baker, Gahanna. Mrs. Baker was the former Adrian Lucille Seesholtz.

Others who made up the musical entertainment are Richard Baker, bass viola; New Albany; Richard Gaa, tenor banjo, Columbus; Thomas Mowery, violin; Kenneth Inboden, five string banjo; Christ Earl Dicken, guitar, all of Logan and Clyde (Tom) Seesholtz, mandolin, Carroll.

Color and black and white pictures of the past four years of the reunions, along with articles published by newspapers in the area were placed in large glass picture frames for viewing.

Registering at the reunion were Meryle Seesholtz, Larry Seesholtz, Miss Karen Seesholtz, Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Seesholtz, Miss Stephanie Seesholtz, Lancaster, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Van Gundy, Mrs. Mary Dunkle, Mrs. Josephine Norman, Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hooker, Whitehall; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baker, Miss Cheryl Baker, New Albany; Richard Gaa, Columbus; Mrs. Kate Hartranft, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Denny, Mr. and Mrs. Denzel Myers, Amanda; Miss Mary Green, Route 1, Rockbridge; Mrs. Marie Karr, Tarlton and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baker, Gahanna.

Turkey, whole or cut in pieces, is delicious when barbecued. Allow about ¾ to 1 pound per serving.

From a representative of a bank a bride might find out "The nation's active money consists of four checking dollars for every cash dollar" and "if you do pay bills in cash, get a receipt."

Whatever amount of money you have to spend on your wedding, budget it so you can afford to do all the things that will make your wedding "the perfect wedding."

The florist advises us that it's the groom's responsibility to buy his bride a bridal bouquet and that the brides family takes care of the other wedding flowers.

A caterer will be serving some delicious punch to all the Bridal Forum guests. She will be on hand to offer suggestions as to what type of wedding reception would best serve the needs of each bridal couple. A wedding cake and delicious samples will be served by a local bakery.

The Ross County Extension Agent, Jean Bauman, has had an active roll in preparing this program. Miss Bauman feels that this is a wonderful opportunity for brides-to-be to obtain valuable information.

All sponsors will have interesting brochures to give to each girl and Modern Bride is furnishing delightful and colorful plastic shopping bags so that the literature may be taken home for further study.

At the conclusion of the program, a number of fabulous door prizes will be awarded. The grand prize will be a honeymoon flight to New York City and a four day stay at the New York Holiday Inn located in the heart of Manhattan close to Lincoln Center, Broadway Theaters, Radio City and fine shops. Each participating merchant will award a prize plus prizes from other Modern Bride advertisers.

Circleville area brides-to-be may call Penni Louden, at the Pickaway County Extension office, 474-7534, to make arrangements for reservations.

BEAUTIFUL BUSINESS — Jean Fissell, on the left, and Mary Koonce are shown looking for weeds and admiring the flowers blooming in the planter at the front of the Citgo Service Station on N. Court St. Included in the list of flowers planted by Robert Call and looked after by the office girls, are giant zinnias, petunias, cockscomb, geraniums and ageratum. A planter of evergreens and ivy is placed at the window of the downstairs office and a smaller plot matching the one in front is at the southwest corner of the lot. The Business For Beauty program is conducted by the Ohio Federation of Womens Clubs. National winners in the GFWC and Cities Service contest will be spotlighted at a Sept. 22 awards luncheon in Washington, D. C.

COMMON TALENT — Harry L. Woltz and Cheryl Lynn Baker, the oldest and youngest members of the musicians to perform at the annual Seesholtz Family Reunion are shown with the instruments with which they entertained the families.

Retired Teacher Assn. Board Meets

The executive board of the Pickaway County and Adjacent Area Chapter of the Retired Ohio Teachers Assn., Inc. met Tuesday to discuss plans for the September meeting of the association. Miss Mary Walters, vice president, was hostess for the meeting at her home 315 E. Main St.

Members of the board present were Dr. Lloyd Sprouse, president, Mrs. Frances Pritt, secretary; Mrs. Robert Bower, treasurer; Carl Bennett, Howard Hosler, Miss Florence Brown, Mrs. Ruby Wallon, Mrs. Clark Will and Miss Walters.

Personals

Miss Shirely Mason has returned to her home in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., after visiting with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mason, 146 Pleasant St.

Miss Mason is assistant chief of anesthesia, at Jackson Memorial Hospital, Miami, Fla. She recently has been appointed supervisor of the cardiopulmonary resuscitation program.

Mrs. Florence Baker, 295 Lewis Road, has returned home after spending six weeks with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Hostutler of Rochester, N. Y., and son and family, Mr. and Mrs. David Baker, Winchester, Mass.

Family Musicians Perform For Seesholtz Reunion

A musical program was featured at the annual reunion of the Seesholtz family held recently at Lancaster Fairgrounds. Richard L. Baker is president of the family association and Mrs. Cleo Seesholtz, secretary - treasurer. New officers for the coming year are Major Ramon Seesholtz, president and Mrs. Marie Karr, secretary - treasurer.

A noon dinner preceded the program. The oldest musician participating was Harry L. Woltz with his violin and the youngest was Cheryl Lynn Baker who plays the chord organ.

The Seesholtz family are noted for their musical ability. Harry L. Woltz, son of the late Mrs. Carrie Seesholtz Woltz, was born in 1891 in Hocking County, and has been playing the violin since the age of nine years. In 1926 he played the lead violin in an orchestra broadcasting by radio from Columbus. In a state-wide Fiddler's Contest held at Logan, he won first place for the years 1928, 1929 and 1930. Mr. Woltz played for weekly dances at the Rockhouse Dance Pavilion for 15 years. He is now retired and lives with his wife in Logan and continues to play the violin.

Cheryl Lynn Baker, age nine, has been playing the piano and chord organ for two years. Cheryl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Baker, New Albany, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Walter R. Baker, Gahanna. Mrs. Baker was the former Adrian Lucille Seesholtz.

Others who made up the musical entertainment are Richard Baker, bass viola; New Albany; Richard Gaa, tenor banjo; Columbus; Thomas Mowery, violin; Kenneth Inboden, five string banjo; Christ Earl Dicken, guitar, all of Logan and Clyde (Tom) Seesholtz, mandolin, Carroll.

Color and black and white pictures of the past four years of the reunions, along with articles published by newspapers in the area were placed in large glass picture frames for viewing.

Registering at the reunion were Meryle Seesholtz, Larry Seesholtz, Miss Karen Seesholtz, Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Seesholtz, Miss Stephanie Seesholtz, Lancaster, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Van Gundy, Mrs. Mary Dunkle, Mrs. Josephine Norman, Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Baker, Whitehall; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baker, Miss Cheryl Baker, New Albany; Richard Gaa, Columbus; Mrs. Kate Hartranft, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hooker, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Denny, Mr. and Mrs. Denzel Myers, Amanda; Miss Mary Green, Route 1, Rockbridge; Mrs. Marie Karr, Tarlton and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baker, Gahanna.

Turkey, whole or cut in pieces, is delicious when barbecued. Allow about ¾ to 1 pound per serving.

Quarantine For Cholera Continued

MOSCOW (AP) — Travel restrictions still are in effect and three cities remain quarantined in southern Russia because of cholera. Soviet health officials continue to stress household cleanliness.

Although Soviet authorities have declared only three cities closed, travelers returning from Black Sea resorts reported soldiers were preventing entry to the Crimean peninsula cities of Kerch and Yevpatoryia.

The three officially closed cities are the Caspian Sea port of Astrakhan where cholera was first reported by the Soviet press two weeks ago, the industrial city of Volgograd and the Black Sea port of Odessa.

Other than preventing access to the three closed cities the cholera has had little effect on foreigners traveling under the supervision of the government agency Intourist.

But all travelers who do not have previously arranged accommodations are denied travel permits to most of southern Russia. Authorities said this was to prevent overcrowding and unsanitary conditions.

An uncooperative information policy at the Soviet Health Ministry has prevented a reliable estimate of the seriousness of the outbreak. No figures have been published. But thousands are affected by the quarantine and travel restrictions.

In Moscow and other cities multicolored posters are abundant in markets and food stores warning shoppers to thoroughly clean all food and boil all drinking water.

Soviet television aired a 20-minute panel discussion Monday night on preventing the spread of cholera by strict sanitary measures in homes, restaurants, public facilities and stores.

New Historical Society Building Set To Open

By ALFRED C. HALL
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — From a distance the $10 million structure looks like a huge block of stone on a pedestal.

Another description compares it to a giant sandwich.

Actually, it is the new, imposing home of the Ohio Historical Society, depository of the state's treasures — from bones of prehistoric animals — to manuscripts.

It will be dedicated by Gov. James A. Rhodes Sunday and opened to the public the following day.

Thereafter, the museum, to be known as the Ohio Historical Center, on the Ohio State Fairgrounds, will be open daily to the millions it is expected to attract.

The building was conceived in 1964 when Rhodes unveiled his $290 million capital improvements bond issue proposal.

It included $10 million for the new center. Voters approved the bond issue and ground was broken Aug. 22, 1966. It has been under construction ever since.

Society Director Daniel R. Porter compared the building, designed by Columbus architect W. Byron Ireland and Associates, to a sandwich.

Two buildings in one, the bottom slice is a delta-shaped, ground level structure housing all central museum functions of the society in more than three acres of space.

The top slice is a three-story, cantilevered block housing the state archives and the library.

The "sandwich" filling is the public reception area or plaza, glass enclosed, housing a display of Ohio battleflags — the third largest collection in the nation — and sales, food service, and information facilities.

Like a gourmet sandwich, Porter says, the contents spill out onto the open plaza deck, landscaped and provided with promenades.

As designed, the building is supported by four hollow, utility filled columns built on bedrock, piercing the ground level, and supporting the cantilevered li-

Museum officials say skeptics prophesied the collapse of the block, but it stands sound.

The formal building is the first of two phases in the development of the 33-acre site. A pre-Civil War village complex is being planned on a 12-acre area north of the building.

Here, historical activities in and around village components will be staged throughout the year. Village construction is to begin next spring. A 1,200-car parking lot serves both the center and the village.

Society officials say museum experts have called the center

one of the six most outstanding historical museum complexes on the continent.

Because of construction delays and slow materials delivery, many of the exhibits will not be completed by dedication day, Porter said, noting the work required to move and arrange the exhibits formerly held in the old museum on the Ohio State University campus.

Hundreds of the objects never before exhibited from the Society's collections will be shown for the first time, Porter said. "We are emphasizing quality, educational exhibits, rather than haste and waste," he said.

Columbus Couple Charged In Fraud

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police have charged two Columbus residents with issuing a false medical diploma after checking out complaints by the State Medical Board that the couple was operating "a diploma mill."

Arrested Wednesday were Julius Caesar Hart, 44, and his wife Linda.

A medical board spokesman said the pair advertised correspondence-type courses in weekly newspapers and national magazines. Officials estimated that the couple has granted 66 diplomas of various kinds this year.

Tate Witness Seeks Seclusion

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I'd like to go into the wilderness with my children and get down to nature and closer to God," said Linda Kasabian, pale but smiling as she ended 18 days as the state's key witness in the Sharon Tate murder trial.

But no matter where she goes, the petite blonde said she'll always remember the murders: "It is deep within my heart what happened and I could never forget it."

Speaking softly, Mrs. Kasabian made her remarks at a news conference an hour after she left the witness stand.

Asked what she now thinks of Charles M. Manson and his three women followers on trial for the slayings, Mrs. Kasabian said: "I'd like to see them fall down on their knees and beg forgiveness."

Mrs. Kasabian, 21, once a member of Manson's hippie-style "family," was charged with murder-conspiracy in the killings of Miss Tate, and six others but was granted immunity from prosecution for her testimony. She told how Manson ordered his followers to kill. She said she went along as lookout on two murder missions, but did not enter the houses where victims were slain.

Of her future, she said, "I want to do my own thing." She said she doesn't plan to live with her husband Robert, although they'll "always be together" spiritually. She said she

Pickaway Grange

SALT CREEK VALLEY

At the Aug. 18 meeting of Saltcreek Valley Grange, interests in organizational aims and cooperative features were shared and compared. There was discussion as to the wisdom of and reason for including Sundays in time for County Fair.

Wayne Cryder, legislative agent, read a letter from Dannie Kincaid who is stationed in Vietnam. This member of Ohio Grange related his favorable version of Grange. When he is home again, he hopes to attend and serve regularly.

Paul Dunkle, Ohio State Grange Deputy Master, gave a review of his many activities since May which had prevented Grange attendance.

A reminder was made of the State Lecturer's Conference, Sept. 26-27 at Pilgrim Hills near Brookhaven; the Chorus entry from Saltcreek Grange for talent competition at Ohio State Fair Aug. 27; and the local Prince and Princess contest Aug. 23.

A contribution was made to help with filling ditty bags for boys in the service.

Mrs. Judson Beougher was in charge of program and recreation. Elaine Judy read "Why Don't They" — an article from recent "Ohio Grange — A Leader in Rural-Urban Affairs."

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Whisler.

does not plan to live with her mother, who has been caring for her children in Milford, N.H. But she said she'll take the children—Tanya, 2, and Angel, 5 months—with her. She declined to say where she will live.

Asked if she feared reprisals from Manson's followers, she paused, then said: "I'm not going to worry about it."

In the last moments of her testimony, Mrs. Kasabian said she fled to New Mexico to see her husband after the killings in August 1969 and told him: "Charlie flipped out and had a whole bunch of people killed." But she said she did not consider telling police.

How The Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official weather bureau summary for Ohio:

It was warm and muggy in Ohio Wednesday. Toledo was the cool spot with a high of 80. Cleveland was the warmest with 91.

Rainfall varied widely. Over an inch was recorded at the Lunken airport in Cincinnati. Cleveland had .31-inch. Findlay and Zanesville reported none and Columbus a trace.

Relief from humid conditions is on the way. A cool front is expected to move into northern Ohio early this afternoon and work south. Temperatures are forecast in the 80s.

There is a chance of thunderstorms near the front as it passes, they are most likely in the southern portions of the state.

Clearing skies and drier air will allow temperatures to drop near 60 in northern Ohio tonight, while lows near the Ohio River will be around 70.

Sunny skies are forecast Friday. Highs Friday are forecast in the 70s north and 80s south with much lower humidity.

—FORECASTS—

OHIO — Partly cloudy with showers and thunderstorms today, most likely south. Highs today in the 80s. Clearing and cooler north tonight and a chance of thunderstorms south early tonight followed by clearing. Lows near 60 north to near 70 south. Sunny and mild Friday, highs in the upper 70s and 80s.

LAKE ERIE — Small craft warnings in effect. Southwesterly winds 15 to 20 knots becoming northwesterly 15 to 20

The next witness called by the prosecution was Timothy Ireland, who was a counselor at a day camp near the actress' home. He said he heard a man's screams for about 15 seconds the night of the slayings.

He said that after the screams at about 12:40 a.m. he drove around the neighborhood but saw nothing and went to sleep without calling police.

Rudolf Weber—who lived in a house at the bottom of Benedict Canyon, an area near the Tate residence—said he was awakened about 1 a.m. on the murder night by the sound of running water. He said he saw a young man and three young women washing themselves with a hose.

Mrs. Kasabian had testified that members of the murder party were spotted by a man as they stopped at a home to wash blood off their bodies and clothes. Weber said he made a note of the license number of the group's car, but did not report it to police.

Later, he said, he threw away the note but he remembered the number when police contacted him in December. It was, he said GYY-435, the plate number which the state says was on the car used on the murder missions.

OSU Young People To Attend Program

A group of young people from Ohio State University will join members of Mt. Pleasant United Methodist Church for a program about love, freedom, peace, communication and the ultimate choice.

The sessions will be Friday and Saturday evening at 7:30 and on Sunday morning at 8:30 and 7:30 in the evening.

County NFO Holds Meet

Pickaway County National Farmers Organization August meeting was held at the 4-H and Grange Building, 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Robert Barnes gave the account of the annual picnic meeting of the Monroe Milk Cooperative at Pennville, Aug. 15. Tom Conrad announced that the NFO is now a credited marketing agent in milk in the Wisconsin area.

Tom Hodson, Zone 2 supervisor of communications of the Columbus Marketing Area, who books all inventories of farm production for contract selling reported successes of milk, grain and meat movements.

Joe Carle talked about the collection point at Williamsport and restated that all hogs are sold on previous day's price if booked ahead.

A meeting to revise the communication structure was set 8 p.m. Aug. 27 at Robert Barnes' home.

A dinner meeting for the next month was discussed. All will receive communications on this.

The Children's Corner

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pickaway County Public Library has a section devoted to books for children. Volumes recently added to the Children's Library are reviewed here.

How do you help a child choose a book? To say you can't tell a book by its cover is not always true. Indeed, many times an attractive, well designed cover is an indication that the publisher felt the title to be worthy of an investment in promotion. He spent cold cash in developing an eye-catching presentation. In the case of books for the pre-school child, art work, though expensive, plays a lion's share of the storytelling roll. From Kate Greenaway to Brian Wildsmith, illustrators of children's books have maintained a solid position in the world of literature. In some circles, the "in" thing is to collect this kind of art. Beatrix Potter, who wrote the "Tale of Peter Rabbit", is extremely popular among collectors, for even good copies of her work command a high price.

For the beginning reader, format is all-important. Print should be fairly large, with letters clearly drawn. Spacing should be attractive and explanatory pictures should accompany the text. The value of story content should not be overlooked. Jane and Spot and their ball are simply passe for today's sophisticated second grader.

By the time a boy or girl is reading independently, he should have good literature available. He should be exposed to the classics, "Alice in Wonderland," "Secret Garden," "Caddie Woodlawn," "Tom Sawyer," "Pinocchio," "Misty," "Hans Brinker," and "Treasure Island." On his own, he will probably discover some of the newer writers, Rumsey, Alexander, L'Engle, Corbett, Christopher. From these samplings he will develop a taste of his own.

Award-winning books are a good bet, but only if the award has stature in the literary world. Unfortunately, some publishing houses present gold-seal awards to their own stable of authors, and these have little merit in themselves. Recognized awards of worth are the Caldecott, for illustration, the Newberry, for story content, and the Hans Christian Andersen International Award, for continuing contribution to children's literature. Notable books are selected by librarians and are usually excellent choices.

In the children's department of the library there are lists of these books, plus many other approved listings. Caldecotts, Newberrys, and Andersons are color coded for easy location by patrons, as are many of the books featured on Sesame Street.

6 Persons Die In Holocaust As Converted Bus Explodes

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — An old school bus converted into a travel home proved a death trap when a propane gas tank exploded and burned the vehicle to the ground, taking six lives, three of them Ohioans. Four other persons were seriously burned Wednesday in what Highway Patrolman John Dorn called "a real holocaust."

David Paul Bruce, 22, of San Bernardino, Calif., said he was traveling east toward Indio on Interstate 10 when "this old bus came over the hill with fire pouring out all its windows." The emergency exit was useless, he said, because a motorcycle was strapped securely across the rear of the vehicle. "One woman flew out a window and landed on the highway with her clothes afire," said Bruce. "Five other people got out of the other side of the bus, screaming and yelling. Other people who arrived at the scene started ripping off the clothes of the lady in the roadway."

Dead at the scene were Edna Davis, 15; her sister, Druscilla, 13, both of El Paso, Tex.; Jimmy Cottrill, 15, and his stepbrother, Jon-Jomo Scott, 19 months, both of Toledo, Ohio. Two others succumbed later at Desert Hospital here. They were Clifford Tandy, 61, of Toledo, grandfather of the Cottrill and Scott youngsters; and Dorothy Davis, 49, mother of the Davis girls.

Commercial Point News

By Loring E. Albright — Phone 877-4588

The congregation of the United Methodist Church last Sunday, listened attentively to the sermon "What Would You Do If You Met Jesus Today" delivered by Rev. Wetherell.

Attendants at the door this week will be Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Wanda Millar and Cheri Stewart will be in charge of the nursery.

Rev. and Mrs. Wetherell returned last week from a vacation through the East, especially the historical spots in Pennsylvania. They report a very enjoyable and interesting trip.

The Faith Baptist Church is progressing very rapidly. Rev. Gary Hohman is in charge of services, and is becoming acquainted with citizens of the community. They extend a welcome to all.

Mrs. Grace Wilkins who fell recently, is gradually improving at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eva Kellar, who also suffered a fall recently and is well on the way to complete recovery.

Mrs. Elizabeth Phillips is slowly improving from a severe attack of the shingles and also a fall suffered at her home.

Mrs. Mildred Van Atta returned to her home Sunday, following treatment and surgery at Riverside Hospital.

Mrs. James Wine is in Mercy Hospital after a week's treatment and underwent surgery Tuesday a.m. She is reported in satisfactory condition and is resting comfortably.

The fire department is announcing the sale of home and farm protection, fire extinguishers, in both 2½ pound and 5 pound. Contact any member of the department.

Mr. and Mrs. George Null and family spent last week at Rocky Fork Lake. They report a very enjoyable vacation except for two days rain.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hancock

returned last week after spending two weeks touring through the scenic spots of Hawaii. They had a very interesting and enjoyable trip.

Mrs. Grace Walton of Midland, Texas, has spent the past five weeks with her sister Mrs. Max Steele and other relatives. She went to Cleveland last Sunday, accompanied by Mrs. Steele and Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Collins and son, to spend some time with her son and family. Quite a trip for a lady of 88 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Duval and son Kelly, returned last Friday from a five day visit through part of the south, visiting Gatlinburg, Great Smoky National Park, and Asheville, N. C. They report an enjoyable visit, but it rained most of the time.

Rev. Ray Huff, formerly of this community, passed away in Cincinnati on Aug. 2.

Jimmy Albright II, placed 2nd in the baby contest at the Harrisburg Homecoming. This was his second (same position) this summer. This winds up his career as a baby contestant. He didn't quite win first place, but he made a reasonable showing.

We have several beautiful flower beds and gardens in full bloom with their late summer flowers. Among the many outstanding ones, for flower lovers, it would be interesting to visit the displays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hudson, and the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams. The community is proud of these displays.

After five years of an uphill struggle, it now appears like a great accomplishment has been made toward our new tire house. Many yards of dirt have been moved in for the filling and grading purposes, and a bulldozer is at the scene, waiting for the work signal, which may sound before you read this.

Members of the Fire Dept. and Auxiliary ladies, together with the civic organizations and the public have worked diligently.

Within a short time, the block laying will begin. It will be a wonderful improvement for our community, and everyone is thanked for their support.

Commercial Point News

The congregation of the United Methodist Church last Sunday, listened attentively to the sermon "What Would You Do If You Met Jesus Today" delivered by Rev. Wetherell.

Attendants at the door this week will be Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Wanda Millar and Cheri Stewart will be in charge of the nursery.

Rev. and Mrs. Wetherell returned last week from a vacation through the East, especially the historical spots in Pennsylvania. They report a very enjoyable and interesting trip.

The Faith Baptist Church is progressing very rapidly. Rev. Gary Hohman is in charge of services, and is becoming acquainted with citizens of the community. They extend a welcome to all.

Mrs. Grace Wilkins who fell recently, is gradually improving at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eva Kellar, who also suffered a fall recently and is well on the way to complete recovery.

Mrs. Elizabeth Phillips is slowly improving from a severe attack of the shingles and also a fall suffered at her home.

Mrs. Mildred Van Atta returned to her home Sunday, following treatment and surgery at Riverside Hospital.

Mrs. James Wine is in Mercy Hospital after a week's treatment and underwent surgery Tuesday a.m. She is reported in satisfactory condition and is resting comfortably.

The fire department is announcing the sale of home and farm protection, fire extinguishers, in both 2½ pound and 5 pound. Contact any member of the department.

Mr. and Mrs. George Null and family spent last week at Rocky Fork Lake. They report a very enjoyable vacation except for two days rain.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hancock

returned last week after spending two weeks touring through the scenic spots of Hawaii. They had a very interesting and enjoyable trip.

Mrs. Grace Walton of Midland, Texas, has spent the past five weeks with her sister Mrs. Max Steele and other relatives. She went to Cleveland last Sunday, accompanied by Mrs. Steele and Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Collins and son, to spend some time with her son and family. Quite a trip for a lady of 88 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Duvall and son Kelly, returned last Friday from a five day visit through part of the south, visiting Gattlinburg, Great Smoky National Park, and Asheville, N. C. They report an enjoyable visit, but it rained most of the time.

Rev. Ray Huff, formerly of this community, passed away in Cincinnati on Aug. 2.

Jimmy Albright II, placed 2nd in the baby contest at the Harrisburg Homecoming. This was his second (same position) this summer. This winds up his career as a baby contestant. He didn't quite win first place, but he made a reasonable showing.

We have several beautiful flower beds and gardens in full bloom with their late summer flowers. Among the many outstanding ones, for flower lovers, it would be interesting to visit the displays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hudson, and the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams. The community is proud of these displays.

After five years of an uphill struggle, it now appears like a great accomplishment has been made toward our new fire house. Many yards of dirt have been moved in for the filling and grading purposes, and a bulldozer is at the scene, waiting for the work signal, which may sound before you read this.

Shaw Signs With Chargers; Walt Sweeney Comes Back

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Walt Sweeney might have returned to the San Diego Chargers empty-handed, but at least he has a job waiting for him. Dennis Shaw, on the other hand, comes to the Buffalo Bills with a fist full of dollars and only a seat on the bench assured.

Shaw, who had been asking a reported $375,000 to sign with the Bills, finally settled Wednesday for a reported $100,000 in salary and bonuses over three years. That assured him a place on the team, and probably on the bench.

Buffalo, desperately in need of a good and healthy quarterback in recent years, has five of them now from which to select — Jim Harris, Dan Darrah, Tom Sherman, Virgil Carter and Shaw.

Sweeney, however, lost his case for retirement and came back to the Chargers without the no-cut clause in his contract he was demanding.

"I need protection in case I would go and break my leg and couldn't play again," he had argued, then the eight-year veteran and All-Pro guard ended his two-day retirement, although he still has yet to sign his pact.

"I made a rather hasty and emotional decision," Sweeney said, expressing regret at his brief retirement. "I was acting selfishly without thinking of my family or my teammates."

However, he was fined an unknown amount by General Manager Sid Gillman, and then returned to his starting position on the offensive line.

There were several other retirements Wednesday that could stick longer than Sweeney's.

Fringe players Paul Feldhausen, an offensive tackle with Boston, and George Youngblood, a defensive back with the Chicago Bears, announced they were leaving football.

A few others switched teams. New Orleans picked up guard-line kicker Justin Canale, a five-year veteran, on waivers from Buffalo, and Minnesota obtained defensive back Seth Miller on waivers from Atlanta.

Shaw, scheduled to arrive in Buffalo from San Diego today, has been working out with San Diego State the past three weeks, but was not expected to see action in Buffalo's exhibition game Friday night against Philadelphia. In fact, he might not see too much action this season.

Despite his mark of leading the nation in yardage last season with San Diego State, the 6-foot-2 Shaw, Buffalo's No. 2 draft pick, is likely to spend much of the season on the sidelines. Currently, the Bills plan to start with Harris, who was out almost all of his rookie year last season with injuries.

However, Shaw was described as "pleased" at the money he got for signing, and so were the Bills.

Sweeney's brief absence, however, lingered with the Chargers, who still are missing All-Pro receiver Lance Alworth, who retired in a dispute over money.

"The next guy that says he's retiring and walks out of camp is through," said Coach Charlie Waller. "I'm going to take his word for it and put him on the retired list and then he won't be able to work."

Woody Hayes Sees Another Great Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Woody Hayes is optimistic about Ohio State's football team setting another national championship attendance total in 1970.

"This team should be as good — a little better than last year," he told a preseason press conference Wednesday night. "Sophomores should make us stronger."

Hayes' job of winning a fourth national crown in his 20 years Ohio State will be much more difficult than the attendance title, already a near certainty. All five Ohio Stadium games are booked as sellouts, starting with the Sept. 26 opener with Texas A&M. That assures the Buckeyes, who have led the nation in attendance 18 of the last 19 years, of a 400,000 crowd figure for the home season.

Hayes, who owns a 125-42-7 record in his 19 seasons with the Buckeyes, admits the coaches' big problem will be lighting a fire under the 18 seniors who have lettered twice and played on the 1968 national and Rose Bowl championship team.

"You never have a great team unless the seniors are playing their best ball — every one of them," he said. He has more seniors on the squad, 28, than any of his previous Ohio State eleven.

The juniors were major contributors to the 1969 Big Ten Conference co-titlists with Michigan that finished fourth in the national rankings with an 8-1 record.

The 24-12 reversal at Michigan in the final game tumbled the Buckeyes from the No. 1 national spot. Hayes hasn't forgotten the Wolverines, although he continues to avoid their name. "That team that decided us in the final game deserves a high rating again. I talked to their coach (Bo Schembechler) and he seems to be completely recovered," Hayes said.

Schembechler suffered a heart attack prior to the Rose Bowl game last December and is back guiding the Wolverines.

The 1970 Buckeyes have so many veterans that only three sophomores, offensive guard John Hicks and defensive tackle George Hasenohrl and Shad Williams, will crack the early starting lineup.

Ohio College Runners To Compete In Italy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four Ohio college distance runners will compete for the U.S.A. at Turin, Italy, in the September World University Games.

Dave Wottle of Bowling Green will run in the 800 or 1500 meter events and Sid Sink, also a Bee-Gee, will compete in the steeple chase. Ohio University's Bob Bartelsen will try the 10,000 meter run and Miami's Dennis Bayham the 5,000 meter event.

Stan Huntsman of Ohio University will coach the American squad.

MAC Coaches Like 10-Game Schedule

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coaches of the Mid-American Conference football teams indicated here Wednesday they generally favor staying with 10-game schedules rather than the 11 the NCAA now permits.

Only Frank Lauterbur of Toledo and Bill Doolittle of Western Michigan favor an extra regular season contest. Toledo is the only team in the six-team loop that will play 11 games this year.

Twins Stop Yankees, 3-0; Houk Angry

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer Ralph Houk was kicking up a dust storm. Ralph Houk was flailing his arms. Ralph Houk was, well, mad.

What's it all about, Ralphie? "I hope somebody got a picture of the tag," the New York Yankees' skipper snapped after Minnesota's Killebrew was called safe on a critical bang-bang play at home Wednesday night.

See, Houk thought he was out — and let umpire Larry Napp know about it demonstratively. To no avail, though. The Twins followed with another run and later added an insurance tally to take a 3-0 victory behind Jim Perry's four-hitter.

The triumph was the third straight for the Twins after a nine-game tailspin and jumped their American League West Division lead to 5½ games over California, which lost 2-0 to Cleveland.

Third-place Oakland kept within six games of the front-running Twins by blistering Detroit 7-0; East Division leader Baltimore turned back Milwaukee 3-2; Chicago ripped Boston 13-5 and Kansas City downed Washington 2-1.

Although Houk praised Perry's performance that cooled the Yankee bats, he was still hot long after the fourth-inning play at home that broke a scoreless tie.

With two out, Killebrew raced home from second on Rich Reese's two-out single. As Napp waved the safe sign, catcher Jake Gibbs and Houk argued heatedly that the throw from right had beaten the Killer.

"When the catcher turned to make the tag, his glove was behind the plate," said Napp. "The runner slid across the plate and into the glove. I call them like I see them."

"I think that's ridiculous," said Houk. "An easy-going guy like Jake doesn't get that mad about every play. You could see the slide marks where he didn't make it."

And Killebrew?

"I was safe ... I was in there," said Charmin' Harmon. That opened the door for another run on Leo Cadenas' RBI single. And the Twins shut off all post-game debates when Killebrew doubled to score Danny Thompson with an insurance run.

Dennis Higgins bailed Rich Hand out of a wobbly eighth inning and pinch-hitter Chuck Hinton delivered a run-scoring double in Cleveland's victory over California. It was Hand's fifth victory of the year, and his third straight over the Angels.

Diego Segui mystified Detroit on four hits as the A's halted a four-game slide that had dropped them from second to third in the West. Don Mincher hit a two-run homer, his 21st, for the winners.

Merv Rettenmund rifled a two-out, run-scoring single in the eighth to snap a 2-2 tie and give the Orioles their victory over the Brewers. It made an 18-game winner of Mike Cuellar and boosted Baltimore's East lead to 11 games over New York.

The White Sox, losing by three going into the ninth, shelved Red Sox hurlers for 11 runs on 10 hits. The cluster tied an American League record held by the New York Yankees for most runs in the ninth inning.

Paul Schaaf rapped a leadoff homer in the seventh, snapping a 1-1 tie, and powered Kansas City over Washington. Dick Drago, who hadn't won a game in nearly two months, pitched a four-hitter.

Columbus Jets Top Toledo In Pair

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Columbus Jets came from behind to defeat the Toledo Mudhens twice by identical 5-4 scores in play at Columbus Wednesday night.

Two runs in the seventh put the Jets ahead in the first game, while a five-run final frame, including a grand slam home run by Milt May, did the trick in the second.

The wins, Columbus' eighth and ninth in a row, strengthened the Jets claim on second place in International League standings, 8½ games behind Syracuse.

Two members of the Circleville Swim Team took part in the Central Ohio Junior Olympics Swim Meet at Sunshine Pool, Columbus.

Steve Penn placed first in the 100-yard backstroke for boys age 11 and 12. Dave Resler placed sixth in the 50-yard freestyle for boys 11 and 12.

This concludes all of the swimming for the local club.

Carroll Hardy, who played major league baseball as a Boston Red Sox outfielder and pro football with the San Francisco 49ers, directs scouting for the Denver Broncos of the National Football League.

Anderson Unhappy As Reds Drop Game To Expos, 8-6

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I don't like to lose to a club like this," said Red Manager Sparky Anderson after dropping a second straight game to the Montreal Expos, 8-6 Wednesday night.

"But we haven't played really well since the All Star Game." Since July 14, the western division leaders of the National League were 20-17.

Gene Mauch, Expos manager, was elated after his team became the first this year to take a home series away from the Reds 2-0.

"We're full of firsts," said Mauch. "We'll all ask for raises now." The Expos won Tuesday night 7-4.

Montreal put six singles and a triple together in a six run fifth inning effort Wednesday night chasing Red righthander Gary Nolan, 15-5.

"Nolan was tight all night," said Anderson, "he didn't even loosen up during the warmup. I guess it was the dampness." Montreal jumped on top in the first inning when Boots Day scored on a Tony Perez error. The Reds came back in the second with two on a Woody Woodward single and a Rusty Staub error. Pete Rose scored in the third on a single by Berie Carbo.

The Expos' Ron Brand's triple put two across to cap their big fifth inning that featured one-base hits by John Bateman, Jim Fairley, Day, Staub, Gosger and Ron Bailey.

Tony Perez hit his 28th homer scoring Ty Cline in the fifth giving him 119 RBIs. Bailey slugged his 21st in the seventh.

The Reds tried to come back in the ninth when Cline tripled Jim Stewart home but it was not enough.

Reliever Mike Marshall was credited with the win.

Chicago Bears Can Only Do Better

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
RENSSELAER, Ind. (AP) — The Chicago Bears have overcome the numbness of their worst season in history and show signs of making a spirited comeback in 1970.

Despite Gale Sayers leading the National Football League with 1,032 rushing yards and the devastation by linebacker Dick Butkus, the Bears went down the drain with a 1-13 record in 1969.

To regain self respect, an overhauling job was mandatory. The old Tiger, George Halas, began growling and the Bears' facelifting began.

Trades involving the Bears' first two draft choices and several players corralled eight established players, five of whom are likely starters.

Linebacker Lee Roy Caffey, center Bob Hyland and running back Elijah Pitts came from the Green Bay Packers; running back Craig Baynham and strong safety Phil Clark from the Dallas Cowboys; defensive tackle Bill Staley and defensive end Harry Gunner from the Cincinnati Bengals and tight end Jim Hester from the New Orleans Saints.

Also going into the blender are such rookies as wide receiver Linzy Cole of Texas Christian, flanker George Farmer of UCLA, and offensive linemen Jeff Curchin of Florida State and Glen Holloway of North Texas State.

"The most encouraging thing is the newfound spirit, not only on the part of the players but also the coaching staff," says 75-year-old Halas, who turned over the head coaching reins to Jim Dooley two years ago.

The new team captains are Sayers, Butkus, offensive guard Jim Cadile and cornerback Bennie McRae.

"They want to be leaders and they are confident we can turn things around this season," says Dooley. "They appreciate the added bench strength we have and the competition it has created."

Adding to the reshuffling was the hiring of two new coaches for Dooley's six-man staff—Perry Moss, former college and pro head coach, and Don Shinnick, 13-season linebacker for the Baltimore Colts.

As quarterback coach, Moss will have as his priority second-year Bobby Douglass, a hefty, towering left-handed slinger who can run with the power of a water buffalo. Douglass, who was shoved in as a starter during the weird 1969 campaign, has a lot to learn—like dropping back faster, reading defenses, absorbing plays and handing off with finesse.

He is willing and eager. When, and if, he masters the prerequisites he could become one of the league's most exciting players.

Until Douglass reaches the projected level, there seems to be the annual Bear guessing game of starting quarterback.

Veteran Jack Concannon still is very much in the picture.

Competition among the troops in training camp shows that the Bears are aroused and is openly encouraged by Dooley.

Willie Holman is giving Ed O'Bradovich pressure at left defensive end. Staley is battling George Seals for left tackle and received the game ball for his aggressive pass-rushing in the Bears' 23-13 opening exhibition victory over the Houston Oilers.

Gunner is pushing Dick Evey at right defensive end with Marty Amsler ready to start shooting. The linebackers are solid with Butkus, Doug Buffone and Caffey. McRae and Joe Taylor, now on the injury list, own the cornerback jobs.

If leg injuries to Howard Mudd and Wayne Mass heal properly, tackle to tackle offensively is well set with Hyland, Cadile and Randy Jackson.

There is a hot match at wide receiver between Bob Wallace and Dick Gordon with Farmer thrown in. The main fight for tight end involves Hester, Ray Ogden and Austin Denney.

Finding backfield mates for Sayers keeps the running back warfare alive. Baynham probably will be Sayers' sideman. The rest depends on how well Ronnie Bull recovers from knee surgery, if at all; how much work can come out of 31-year-old Pitts, and the choice among Mike Hull, Ross Montgomery and Ralph Kurek.

Grand American Trapshoot Opens Friday At Vandalia

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP)—The ear-popping noise of more than 15,000 gunners firing away at clay pigeons resumes Friday when the 71st Grand American Trapshooting Tournament opens a nine-day run here.

All the firing takes place on the Amateur trapshooting Association grounds and draws marksmen from every state and a number of foreign countries.

The big event, of course, is the Grand American Handicap, which attracted 2,881 entries in 1969. It will be staged Friday, Aug. 28.

The odds are stacked high against defending Grand American Handicap Champion Bernard Bonn Jr. of Fairborn, Ohio. Nobody has won two Grand Americans.

Bonn broke 99 of 100 pigeons last year from the 19-yard line. Grand American shooting is on a handicap basis, ranging from 18 to 27 yards.

The first three days are for preliminary events with the international Championship of America Sunday the most important event during the early shooting.

Steve Carmichael of Columbus, Ga., a serviceman from Fort Benning, won the first international crown last year, taking a shootoff from Liano Rossini of Italy and Ron Scondo of Canada.

All broke 100 straight targets and then Carmichael hit 25 in a row. Rossini had 24 bullseyes and Scondo 23 in the shootoff.

Mahoning Bank Seizes Transit Firm's Account

YOUNGSDOWN, Ohio (AP) — The Mahoning National Bank has seized a $19,000 account of the defunct Youngstown transit Co., making final paychecks totaling $13,000 to 75 YC employees worthless.

County Engineer J. Philip Richley, chairman of the Mahoning Valley Regional Mass Transit Authority, said the bank seized the account to apply against an $85,000 loan negotiated several years ago by the transit company. He said repayment of the loan was $3,328 in arrears.

Phillip Jones, president of the bank, said the bank had the right to seize YTC buses but would not "unless extremely adverse conditions prevail."

The Youngstown Transit Co. went out of business Aug. 9, but the transit authority has leased the firm's equipment and hired its former employees.

Zsa Zsa Offers Jewelry Reward

NEW YORK (AP) — Zsa Zsa Gabor is offering a $30,000 reward for the return of a 38-carat ring worth $500,000 that was stolen from her in a Waldorf Towers elevator.

"I'll never wear real jewelry again," the actress told newsmen Wednesday as she described how earlier in the morning two men had taken the ring, a $100,000 pair of earrings and a $30,000 turquoise ring.

Miss Gabor, who is starring on Broadway in the comedy "Forty Carats," said none of the jewelry was insured because "rates for actresses are prohibitive."

We have the new kind of Armstrong floor that hates waxing as much as you do.

It's called Solarian.

The sunny floor that shines without wax. In fact, Solarian should not be waxed, since most household waxes will not adhere to its unique high-gloss wear surface. With no wax to buy, apply and let dry... you save money, time and work. No yellowing, no stripping.

As beautiful to look at as it is to care for.

Choose Solarian in this crisp mosaic design or a gentle marble graining, both in four sunny, kitchen-perfect colors.

The secret behind the waxless shine.

A major new development—the Mirabond™ Wear Surface—is an entirely new formulation that maintains its brilliant gloss far longer than any vinyl floor. And the nonporous, nubby surface makes Solarian much easier to clean than a vinyl floor—even black heel marks wipe right up with a mild cleaner.

Dave Lewis Starts For Cincy Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals announced Wednesday night that rookie quarterback Dave Lewis will start against the St. Louis Cardinals there Saturday night in the teams' third National Football League exhibition game.

The former Stanford players earlier won the punting assignment and Dale Livingston was placed on waivers.

Paul Brown, coach and general manager, Sunday signed Rick Norton after he was released by the Miami Dolphins. Norton, Miami's No. 1 draft choice from the University of Kentucky in 1965, reported this week to the Bengal's camp here.

CITATION TO PARENT BY PUBLICATION

The State of Ohio, Pickaway County Court of Common Pleas, Juvenile Division, In the Matter of Elvira Harris

A Dependent Child
Said child is hereby cited to appear and Joe Harris, the father of said child, and any other person having custody or control of said child, or with whom the same may be, to personally be and appear with said child, before the Judge of the Juvenile Court on the 27th day of August, 1970, at 2:30 P.M. at the Court House in said County in the matter of said child and this shall be in no wise null under penalty of the law. A person so failing and failing to appear may be punished as in any other cases for contempt of court.

The nature of the complaint in the case is as follows: That Pickaway County Children Services Board requests permanent custody of Elvira Harris.

In Testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said Court, this 18th day of August, 1970.

Welfare Payments Can't Be Hiked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state researcher on public welfare said Wednesday Ohio is unable to increase welfare payments.

Raymond F. McKenna, director of research and statistics for the Ohio Department of Public Welfare, made the statement as Seth Taft of Cleveland and some other advocates of additional funds for the Aid for Dependent Children program met with Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Taft, a Republican candidate for Cuyahoga County commissioner, has asked Rhodes for more money for the Cuyahoga County program.

Students Serve As U.S. Ambassadors In Europe

Seven Pickaway County youths spent an exciting 45 days touring Europe this summer as members of a national student ambassador tour.

TOUR LEADERS — Teacher-leaders of the European tour were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bush, of Williamsport and Mrs. Mearl V. Weaver, Columbus, who also served as state director for Ohio. Here they take in the sights on the Greek island of Hydra in the Aegean Sea on one part of a two day cruise.

STUDENT AMBASSADORS — The local delegation prepare to board their bus in Gars, Austria on the last leg of their European tour. From the left are James Salyer, Guy Cline Jr., Krista Kay Clifton, Stephen Clark, Mr. Bush, Melody Steely, Mrs. Bush, Lois Dill, Deena Halstenberg, Janet Haines, from Columbus and Brian Miller.

their foreign trip as American ambassadors, in a people-to-people program, to learn about our overseas neighbors and give them an opportunity to learn about Americans. Before leaving, they took part in a two day orientation at the U.S. State Department.

Accompanying the local group were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bush, a Williamsport couple.

Traveling under their supervision were James Salyer, Deena Halstenberg, Krista Kay Clifton, Brian Miller and Melody Steely, all from Circleville and Guy Cline Jr. and Steve Clark, both of Ashville.

The tour began in England where all 45 students were taken as house guests for several days of English families while sightseeing. Then they traveled to Paris, Luxembourg, Amsterdam, Switzerland and Mt. Blanc, the highest peak in the Alpine Mountains. They went by bus, train and, for the mountain, by cable car.

TRAVELING to Rome, Capri and Athens, the group then took a two day cruise on the Romantic visiting the Aegean islands of Hydra, Delos and Mykonos. In Greece, students were again boarded with native families.

All the time they were moving across Europe they were meeting people and talking to them. When the students could not make themselves understood by spoken words, they communicated by sign language. All the students were amazed at the excellent command most of the foreigners had of the English language.

On other flights and bus trips, the students took in Istanbul, Rumania, and homestays in Austria. Here some students, with the permission of border guards, were permitted to step across into Czechoslovakia.

From Austria the group traveled to Holland, returned to London and began their trip home.

The youths were high school students or graduates of all four county high schools. They joined 15 other Ohioans and 20 Indians in New York to begin their foreign trip as American ambassadors, in a people-to-people program, to learn about our overseas neighbors and give them an opportunity to learn about Americans. Before leaving, they took part in a two day orientation at the U.S. State Department.

Accompanying the local group were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bush, a Williamsport couple. Traveling under their supervision were James Salyer, Deena Halstenberg, Krista Kay Clifton, Brian Miller and Melody Steely, all from Circleville and Guy Cline Jr. and Steve Clark, both of Ashville.

The tour began in England where all 45 students were taken as house guests for several days of English families while sightseeing. Then they traveled to Paris, Luxembourg, Amsterdam, Switzerland and Mt. Blanc, the highest peak in the Alpine Mountains. They went by bus, train and, for the mountain, by cable car.

TRAVELING to Rome, Capri and Athens, the group then took a two day cruise on the Romantica visiting the Aegean islands of Hydra, Delos and Mykonas. In Greece, students were again boarded with native families.

All the time they were moving across Europe they were meeting people and talking to them. When the students could not make themselves understood by spoken words, they communicated by sign language. All the students were amazed at the excellent command most of the foreigners had of the English language.

On other flights and bus trips, the students took in Istanbul, Rumania, and homestays in Austria. Here some students, with the permission of border guards, were permitted to step across into Czechoslovakia.

From Austria the group traveled to Holland, returned to London and began their trip home.

Joining them on the trip was head of the Ohio tour, Mrs. Mearl V. Weaver, of Columbus. She also lead a delegation from her city in the People-to-People High School Student Ambassador Program, the first for the local youths to participate in.

The European tour was only one of four underway this summer, another in Europe, one in South America and one in the Orient.

The seven Pickaway County youths unanimously agree on the educational benefits of the program, arriving home with many new friends and knowledge such as cannot be gotten from a book.

Contract Awarded To Local Metal Firm

John R. Hall, Acting District Director of the Small Business Administration, announced that under the program to set aside a portion of government procurements for small business concerns, the Defense Supply Agency has awarded to Circleville Metal Works Inc. a $64,072 contract for 166 hoists.
